

Viet Cong Unleash Six Mortar Attacks; Other Action Light

American Troop Strength in Viet Nam Increased by 6,000

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong unleashed mortar attacks on a provincial capital and five government outposts during the night and today in the Mekong Delta.

The barrages struck the town of Ben Tre, 45 miles southwest of Saigon, and a string of militia posts 48 to 78 miles southwest of the capital.

Two women were reported killed and nine other civilians wounded in the shelling of Ben Tre during the night. Fifteen militiamen manning one watchtower suffered moderate casualties, a Vietnamese spokesman said. Casualties at the other posts were reported "very light."

Small Skirmishes

U.S. military headquarters reported only small-scale probes and patrol skirmishes.

In the largest action, U.S. Marines reported the number of Communists killed Wednesday in a fight below the demilitarized zone rose from 14 to 28. The action, 10 miles south of the zone, was the first of any size in Operation Prairie since late September.

The U.S. command reported that American troop strength in Viet Nam rose to 358,000 last week, an increase of 6,000 over the previous week.

Brandt Predicts More of Crisis If Coalition Fails

Kiesinger Still Trying to Gain Party's Support

BERLIN (AP)—Mayor Willy Brandt declared today that his Social Democrat party can be kept out of the new West German government only by perpetuation of the political crisis.

Franz Josef Strauss, the new kingmaker of the Christian Democrats, also appeared to favor coalition with Brandt's party.

Kurt Georg Kiesinger, the Christian Democrat candidate for chancellor, met in Bonn with Erich Mende, chairman of the small Free Democratic party.

Political negotiations are expected to mark time, however.

Two Missing From Copter After Ditching

Five Rescued 100 Miles From California Coast

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Two of seven persons aboard a Navy helicopter are missing today after ditching 100 miles offshore west of San Clemente Island, the Navy said.

The SH3A Sea King Helicopter was reported missing half an hour after leaving the aircraft carrier Hornet to Ream Field, near San Diego.

An air-sea search was launched by the Navy and Coast Guard, including aircraft from the aircraft carriers Yorktown and Hornet.

Three Picked Up

A small boat from the Yorktown picked up three survivors. They were identified as Lt. (jg) A. E. White, 26, the copilot of Chula Vista, Calif.; H. B. Estrada, 24, a crewman, of Chula Vista, and Lt. Cmdr. L. R. Jacobson, a passenger, of North Island Naval Air Station.

The pilot of the helicopter was identified as Cmdr. William E. Todd, 37, of Chula Vista.

Names of the others were withheld pending notification of relatives.

Paper Hints Bishops Already OK'd Change

WASHINGTON (AP)—Spokesmen for the National Conference of Catholic Bishops gave no hint on when a decision will be announced on the question of abolishing or modifying the Church's rule against eating meat on Fridays.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer said today it learned from reliable sources that the bishops already have voted on the issue and that 75 per cent approved abolishing the rule. The paper said final wording of the document had held up its release.

Physicians Bothered By Activity

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, doing well after surgery, had a visit today from former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who exclaimed with surprise "I was so excited he was able to talk."

Eisenhower spent 51 minutes at the hospital—most of that time with Johnson. He said he found Johnson looking well and he expressed obvious startledness that the VIP patient was using his voice.

Johnson's family doctor, Dr. James C. Cain, said Wednesday he was somewhat perturbed about the speed with which the President was returning to matters of state. And the surgeons who removed a growth from Johnson's right vocal cord before repairing an abdominal hernia, repeatedly made it clear they want him to spare his voice for several weeks.

Johnson, however, conversed with Eisenhower in a voice audible to photographers summoned to record the event.

Up Before Dawn

The President was up before dawn today and moved to a chair without assistance, to eat breakfast. Eisenhower arrived two hours later.

It was the 32nd wedding anniversary of the President, and Eisenhower was asked by newsmen as he came in if he had dropped by to offer congratulations on that event.

"Is it today?" the former chief executive responded. Johnson had a breakfast of melon balls, creamed chipped beef, toast and tea.

Mrs. Johnson and the White House physician, Navy Capt. Lay Fox, spent the night in the President's suite.

Pentagon Admits Dropping Bomb Was Accidental

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department says a Navy jet plane accidentally dropped a non-nuclear practice weapon into waters off Puerto Rico last August.

The staff of the Senate-House Atomic Committee confirmed the Defense Department's account that the weapon dropped during practice maneuvers by an A4 jet contained no nuclear material, as a newspaper report said this week.

The Pentagon said the practice weapon was recovered Aug. 20 because it contained "a small charge of conventional explosives" and electrical equipment.

$26 Million Suit Filed Against Auto Firm

NEW YORK (AP) — An attorney for General Motors says the corporation has no legal liability to Ralph Nader, the auto safety advocate who filed a $26 million invasion of privacy suit against the firm.

"In due course, the courts will vindicate our position," said the attorney, Simon H. Rifkind.

Vincent Gillen, a licensed private investigator who also was named as a defendant in the suit, described the charges as "a lot of nonsense."

Nader, 32, an attorney who led a successful fight for a new federal auto safety law, filed the suit Wednesday in Manhattan Supreme Court.

The suit alleges that General Motors subjected Nader to "harassment and intimidation, (and) intruded into and invaded his seclusion, solitude and private affairs."

Other Charges

Nader charged in his suit that detectives hired by General Motors questioned his acquaintances and cast "aspersions upon plaintiff's political, social, economic, racial and religious views, tendencies and possible prejudices; his integrity, his sexual proclivities and inclinations; and his personal habits, such as use of intoxicants, narcotics and the like."

Powell Given Until Nov. 23

30-Day Sentence To Begin Then, Justice Decides

NEW YORK (AP) — State Supreme Court Justice Matthew M. Levy today ordered Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, Harlem Democrat, to surrender to the sheriff on Nov. 23 to begin serving a 30-day jail term for criminal contempt of court.

In his order, Levy said that Powell would be liable to an additional 60-day term if he defaulted in paying a $500 fine which was part of the sentence imposed on Nov. 4.

The Negro minister and congressman was told to give himself up at 10:30 a.m. at the courthouse on Nov. 23.

Levy said the order could be served personally or by registered mail on Powell at his legal voting address, 120 W. 138th St.; his Washington, D.C., congressional office, or his "abode" in Bimini in the Bahamas.

The surrender was ordered to take place a day after the five-man Appellate Division is to hear arguments on whether Levy should be restrained from signing the arrest order on the ground that the lower court lacked jurisdiction in the case.

Saturn I Booster Test Successful

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — An uprated version of a Saturn I booster rocket fired its powerful engines successfully for 35 seconds Thursday.

The test conducted by the Chrysler Corp. at the Marshall Space Flight Center with the rocket on a stand was the eighth in a series of 12 uprated tests of the same design.

The Saturn I engines generated 1.6-million pounds of thrust during the test.

A second test firing of 145 seconds is planned in about two weeks. The vehicle then will be shipped to the Marshall Center's Michoud assembly facility at New Orleans for post static firing checkout.

Gemini 12 Crew Praised for Photos

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — After one look at color movies of the record-smashing Gemini 12 ship in three excursions totaling about 5½ hours. His 2-hour, 9-minute stroll bested Cernan's Gemini 9 record by one minute.

Movies showed Aldrin gracefully going about his job of determining how well man can work in space by using various handholds and restraints. Officials had been puzzled by a fatigue problem encountered by previous strollers.

Lovell and Aldrin flew Wednesday to Cape Kennedy, Fla., from the aircraft carrier Wasp which retrieved them from the western Atlantic Ocean. They continue today an extensive briefing on their mission, recalling the thrilling events for a tape recorder.

Their flight ended the Gemini program which sent 20 men into space in 20 months and opened the gate for the Apollo man to the moon program. First earth orbit flight of a three-man Apollo crew is scheduled early next year.

The movie pictured Aldrin skirting over the Pacific, past Mexico, then Cuba. However, Cernan said, "Out there you generally don't know where you are, and really don't care."

The sun beamed down on Aldrin's bright white spacesuit. A U.S. flag on his shoulder frequently flashed past the camera. At times Aldrin seemed to tumble slightly with his legs twisting over his head.

However, once he attached a waist strap, similar to that used by a window washer, Aldrin had little difficulty doing the job.

He spent more than an hour near an Agena rocket linked to Gemini 12's nose. He looped a 100-foot cord between the two vehicles, then practiced loosening bolts with a special "space wrench."

Legislature Won't Settle Vote Dispute

Federal Judges Affirm Earlier Word on Ruling

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A three-judge federal court ruled formally today that the Georgia Legislature cannot elect a governor in the deadlocked race between Republican Howard Callaway and Democrat Lester G. Maddox.

The decision struck down the Georgia Constitution's provision for legislative decision in no-majority elections. An immediate appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court was planned by the state.

In a decision formalizing its tentative ruling of last Friday, the federal panel merely invalidated the Georgia constitutional provision. But a 10-day suspension of the order was granted to give State Atty. Gen. Arthur K. Bolton time to seek an additional stay from the Supreme Court.

No remedy for the winless election was set forth by the court, composed of Chief Judge Elbert P. Tuttle and Judge Griffin Bell of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and Dist. Judge Lewis R. Morgan.

The court declared Article 4, Section 1, and Paragraph 4 of the Georgia Constitution to be unconstitutional and void. That is the section requiring the general assembly to elect a governor from the top two candidates in the event no candidate receives a majority. Callaway and Maddox were denied a majority by write-in votes for Ellis G. Arnall, a former governor.

In its opinion, the three-judge panel said the Georgia provision is patterned after the federal electoral college. But the court said a Supreme Court ruling voiding the Georgia county unit system of primary elections in 1962 invalidated the state constitution's legislative election provision.

PX Alley, Saigon's Sidewalk Black Market, Cleaned Up

Dealers Warned Of Raid, Save Many Articles

By EDWIN Q. WHITE
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Saigon's "PX Alley" was cleared today of the maze of sidewalk black market stalls that offered all buyers everything from combat uniforms to hair spray. The crackdown was announced in advance and the dealers moved much of their stock beforehand.

Vietnamese police moved in early in the morning, dragged some of the goods into small piles and poured gasoline over them. Clothing, foodstuffs and toilet articles went up in flames.

Bottles of whisky were smashed and cans of beer and insecticide were ripped open with bayonets.

The articles seized and destroyed were only a small part of the stocks that formerly were spread along the curbs of the streets near the U.S. Embassy, nearly choking off movement along the sidewalks.

Illicit Goods
The police action was aimed chiefly at shutting down the sale of illicit goods obtained from U.S. Post Exchanges and commissaries. Some of this was stolen before it reached the American installations, while some was bought or bartered from U.S. servicemen.

The sidewalk merchants also offered goods imported from Hong Kong and Japan as well as locally manufactured products. "Made in America" labels on some of the items — whisky bottles bearing PX stamps, for example — often were phony.

"Things sell a lot better if they think they come from America," one street vendor said recently.

One of Four
Although the South Vietnamese government ordered the crackdown, American authorities are known to be concerned over the operation of what is euphemistically called the "open market." The section raided today was only one of four black market areas operating in Saigon, but its location in the heart of the downtown area so close to the U.S. Embassy was particularly embarrassing.

A reporting of an Associated Press survey of the pilferage and diversion of U.S. Post Exchange goods and economic aid in South Viet Nam is attracting much attention in the United States. Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.C., member of a key Senate watchdog committee, is due in Saigon next Tuesday to look into the graft and corruption.

It was generally believed that PX Alley soon would be back in operation, although perhaps in a more discreet location.

North's Reaction Feared

Pentagon Fights Christmas Truce

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like other Johnson administration officials, top Pentagon leaders are steadfastly against another Christmas pause in the U.S. bombing of targets in North Viet Nam.

The Pentagon officials are known to believe there is no evidence now that Hanoi would respond affirmatively — either by taking steps to reduce the fighting or to begin peace talks — if the bombs stopped falling over the North.

As of today, officials believe the North Vietnamese would use any lull to do what they did during last year's pause — "take maximum advantage," as one official put it.

In a series of interviews, officials voiced concern that a bombing pause would give the enemy a chance to repair bridges, railroads and improve the distribution of badly shattered petroleum and oil stocks.

Took Advantage
"They went full blast last year," said one well-informed source. "They'll do the same thing again. Anytime you have one day or 37 days in which you aren't hampered, you do what you can."

There have been reports that Pope Paul VI again will call for a Christmas cease-fire and bombing pause in Viet Nam.

President Johnson ordered a pause in the bombings last Dec. 24 and called for their resumption Jan. 31 after reporting the United States had received no indication that Hanoi was willing to begin peace talks.

Opposition to another pause at this time has strongly united the Pentagon's top military and civilian leaders — men who don't always see eye to eye. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and the Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS) are reliably reported to be against any lull.

Adm. McDonald
One sign of JCS opposition came Wednesday from Adm. David L. McDonald, chief of naval operations, who told a news conference he opposed another bombing pause this year.

McDonald acknowledged that the U.S. raids are not completely stemming the flow of men and materials into the South, but said they are "saving the lives of Marines in South Viet Nam."

Some Pentagon officials disagree widely on the effects of the almost daily U.S. bombings in the North.

For some officials, the most significant effect of the air raids has been on enemy morale. "When we bomb," one source said, "the North Vietnamese are forced to confine their movements to nighttime and use all kinds of subterfuges."

"When they're on the move, they can't even settle down for the night or light a fire to cook rice."

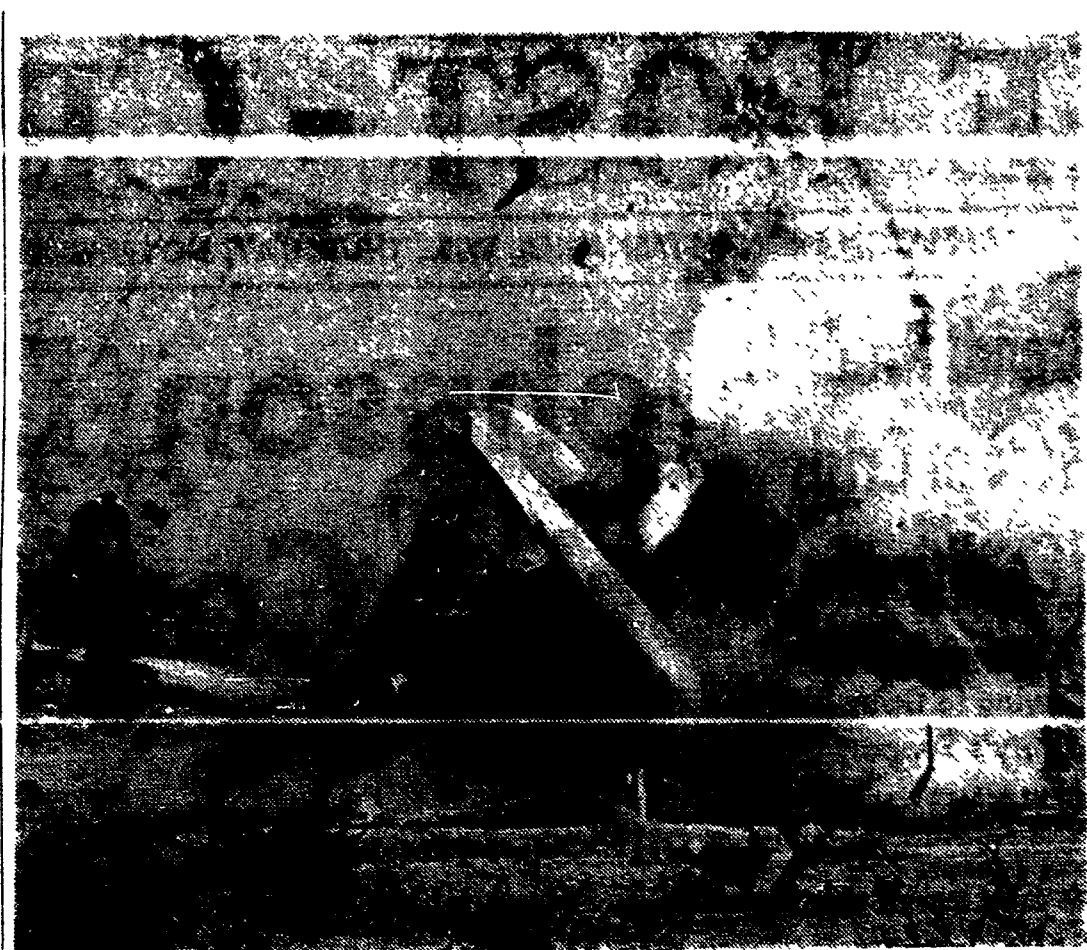

Security Council Might Condemn Israeli Raid

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Security Council members conferred privately today on a resolution to censure Israel after the Big Four powers, in a rare display of agreement, joined in condemning the Israeli raid on Jordan last weekend.

Speaking at the start Wednesday of an urgent council debate called at Jordan's request, U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said the "inexcusable" attack violated Israel's armistice agreements. British Ambassador Lord Caradon said the attack increased the risk of "continued and wider conflict" in the Middle East.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko said the American and British statements should be followed by measures to prevent such raids from recurring. French Delegate Roger Seydoux also denounced the Israeli raid but said France took note of the border incidents that had led to it.

Goldberg also urged the council to consider the "total situation" between Israel and its Arab neighbors. Although he said the Israeli raid far exceeded the "cumulative total" of the preceding acts of Arab terrorism, he said the council should condemn the terrorist activities as well as the Israeli reprisal.

A U.S. Air Force twin-engine C119 plane explodes in flames Wednesday during a deliberate crash conducted by a private firm under military contract. The transport plane carried in its cargo bay a 15-foot cylinder containing a top-secret capsule for hauling nuclear and chemical weapons. The $500,000 air plane was destroyed but the boxed cylinder, although thrust through the rear of the fuselage, stayed in one piece. The test was near Phoenix, Ariz. (AP Wire-photo)

Annual Consideration Pending

2-China U.N. Membership Idea Again Rejected by Nationalists

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Nationalist China, facing its annual fight for survival in the United Nations, insists it will not accept a two-China deal as the price of remaining a member.

A talk in the United States, Canada and elsewhere about seating both Chinese regimes in the world organization has dismayed Nationalist leaders battling to block the Reds of Peking.

It has been particularly disturbing to Ambassador Liu Chieh, chief of the Nationalist mission, who reports pledges of support from at least three African members who voted for the Communists last year.

Unacceptable to People
"The two-Chinas idea is unacceptable, not only to my government, but to the Chinese people, and this includes those on the mainland," Liu says.

Liu apparently has no fear that the campaign by American groups to seat both Chinas will induce Washington to reverse at this stage its opposition to a seat for Peking.

But the effect on U.S. allies is something to reckon with, Liu told an interviewer. As a founding member of the United Nations who has attended all 21 assembly sessions, the career diplomat from the Chiang regime on Formosa has plenty of experience seeing trends change in the world forum.

"The irony of it is that while we are gaining ground in either areas, agitation in the United States for the two-China idea has certainly affected some of the Western allies," he said. "This hidden factor could be very damaging to our cause."

Canadian Response

Nationalist uneasiness was increased by reports from Ottawa that Canada, which voted against Red China last year, might cosponsor a resolution in the 121-nation General Assembly, to seat both Chinas and give the Reds the Chinese permanent seat as one of five major powers on the 15-nation Security Council.

Other Western governments have pondered aloud over how long the United Nations can continue to exclude a regime that governs some 700 million people.

Talk of universality in the United Nations — membership for all comers — has posed a ticklish problem for the Nationalists, especially in view of the support it has been getting from such leaders as Secretary-general U Thant.

"Universality is something we adhere to in principle," said Liu. . . (but) "it is incorrect to say that universality is a principle of the U.N. charter. That document . . . was aimed primarily at checking aggression among nations. It calls for the suspension of any member who violates the principles of non-aggression."

Democrats Suffer In 10 Strong States

Party Left Leaderless Where It Usually Is Most Powerful

WASHINGTON (AP) — In sharp contrast to the years leading up to John F. Kennedy's election as president, the Democratic party lies split and weakened in the 10 big states which traditionally have been the cornerstones of Democratic presidential victories.

In most of the states, last week's election results left the Democrats without a strong, recognized leader and, in some, without fresh, younger leadership ready to plug the gap.

An Associated Press survey of the 10 states showed that Democrats face a major task in overhauling decaying state party organizations by 1968. It was in these states that Democrats, in the years leading up to 1960, laid the organizational basis for Kennedy's 1960 victory.

Leadership Centralized
Furthermore, the problem extends to such national groups as the Democratic National Committee. The party's political leadership has become centralized in the White House.

The problem for the Democrats is complicated by an accompanying decline in the big cities, most of which have been heavily Democratic for more than 30 years.

Republicans made strong inroads in many cities last week. In addition, New York has a Republican mayor in John V. Lindsay, Philadelphia's Democratic Mayor James H. J. Tate faces a difficult re-election fight next year, Chicago's Richard J. Daley — whose term also expires next year — is in increasing political difficulty and Los Angeles is led by Samuel F. Yorty, a maverick Democrat at odds with the party leadership. Of the nation's five largest cities, only Detroit, with Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, is led by a vigorous young Democratic mayor — and this office actually is filled by nonpartisan election Cavanagh has his own intraparty political problems, too, resulting from an unsuccessful primary election Senate bid this year.

Of the 10 big states, all except California and Ohio supported Kennedy in 1960, and all went for President Johnson in 1964. But seven will have Republican governors next year.

Over-all, the 10 states have 13 Democrats and 17 Republicans as governors and senators, compared with 21 Democrats and 9 Republicans after 1958 and 18 Democrats and 12 Republicans after 1962.

The 10 states, and their electoral vote totals, are: California (40), Illinois (26), Massachusetts (14), Michigan (21), Minnesota (11), New Jersey (17), New York (43), Ohio (26), Pennsylvania (29) and Texas (25). They have 252 electoral votes — just 18 short of the 270 needed to elect a president.

Republicans will have governors in states with more than enough electoral votes to elect a president, but what concerns Democratic leaders is the situation in the big states.

Red China Alliance Of Old, Very Young Forecasts Trouble

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
HONG KONG (AP) — China's bypassed generation is stirring restlessly.
Young men beyond the age of 20 dislike the prospect of what they see as a strange alliance between the old and the very young, suggests one of them, a young former Red Chinese army officer who fled the mainland only two years ago.
The very old are the top leaders of the Politburo. Their average age is somewhere above 60. The very young are the teen-age Red Guards, the rampaging youngsters the old men are using today as a political weapon. In between is a generation bypassed in a grim power struggle at the top in Peking. That generation includes the many millions in the Young Communist League. It is now virtually dismantled, probably because its members were too mature to be used in the way the Red Guards are used to push what the new leaders, headed by Defense Minister Lin Biao, call the "great proletarian cultural revolution."

Deep In Crisis
The young officer said there was no question in his mind but that Red China now is in deep crisis and that if it continues on its present course it could lead to collapse of the regime. But, knowing his Chinese brethren, he did not feel that the regime would collapse. When the danger became too acute, he predicted, there would be a compromise.

Much of what is going on — and has been going on for some years now in the slowly unfolding power struggle — is unpopular, he said. But one development is generally welcomed among the Chinese.
"It was good to get rid of the Russians," he said with an air of grim satisfaction. "It was good to get rid of foreign domination."
Split Welcome
If he is a sample of Chinese thinking, there never was any love for the Russians. Even his fellow officers, he said, welcomed the split although some professionals regretted the loss of Soviet military assistance. "The break came from Chinese national spirit, and we all thought that China should be built up in a spirit of self-reliance."

Speaking through an interpreter, the ex-officer said that when he left mainland China he felt the people were not happy, that they were hoping for political and economic changes. Mostly, the literate element wanted less restrictions on their individual lives.
This did not mean, he added, that collectivization was considered wrong. China for ages has been accustomed to collectivization, but he felt the people wanted it only with a framework of more individual liberty.
Too Much Control
"This didn't mean we wanted Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China back," he added quickly, even though he judged things for many had been better before 1949 than they are today.

What he did not want — and one of the reasons he fled — was so much control over the individual by the state, such as in the "people's communes."
The Chinese people in general, he said, did not think highly of the Communists or communism, but didn't think highly of the Americans either. His friends tended to believe that Americans were aggressors and that they were threatening China's security.
He finally decided to flee Red China when one of his idols, a famous writer, was denounced and purged. This sort of attack on Chinese culture, he said, was a shock to him and to most Chinese intellectuals. The Chinese for centuries have venerated their culture and respected their wise men.

Speaking hesitantly, almost reluctantly, he suggested that the Chinese Communist party organization is such that it is capable, even in time of internal crisis, of keeping the country under control. Should it be in danger of not being able to, he said, a compromise would be reached.
Political Tool
The Red Guards movement developed after he left his country. He professed dismay at the prospect, looking upon the organization as a tool of political power, blindly obeying the leaders who are capable of manipulating it.
Gradually, he seemed sure, China would pull out of its present state of chaos. And gradually, too, he added, China will develop its own system,

Judges Disqualify Miss World Hopeful
LONDON (AP) — Organizers of the Miss World contest in London disqualified Nigeria's Uzor Okator, 22, after a diplomatic utterance about her sponsorship.
Miss World entrants normally come to competitions as winners of beauty contests in their own countries. No Miss Nigeria contest was held this year.
Uzor, the mother of two daughters, said she entered the contest only because her British husband had urged her to.
"Marxism is outdated," he snorted. "Mao Tse-tung is no Marxist. For a Chinese to say he is Marxist-Leninist is to talk nonsense. Marxism-Leninism is a foreign idea. If there is going to be communism, it should be Chinese communism."
About the people — they don't care what the system is called. What they long for most is something better than bare subsistence, a better living standard.
Perhaps, eventually, he seemed to suggest, the bypassed generation will take a hand.

The Arizona Slayings

It is difficult to understand the workings of a mind that would drive a man to commit a mass killing as happened in Arizona last week. The accused killer, an 18-year-old high school student, calmly admitted he methodically shot seven women and children, killing five, because he wanted to see his name in headlines "before I die." Viewing the fantastic way he used to kill his victims, few would dispute that his wish would be granted.

Perhaps more frightening, to those who wonder what the future holds, was the youth's statement that he committed the acts because of accounts he had read of the mass killings from the tower in Texas and of the nurses in Chicago. Immediately the newspapers are condemned for having splashed the killings across front pages. If they had played down those stories, such a

More Trails Needed

A new report of the Wisconsin Department of Resource Development indicates that there is going to be a growing need for spaces for four types of recreational activities in this area. They are bicycling, nature walking, hiking and horseback riding. By the year 2000 almost three times as many people as today will be searching for such trails and obviously plans should be made now.

It has been only in recent years that Wisconsin has become aware of the need for such trails. Despite the beauty of our scenery, the extent of our forests and scenic waterways, we have lagged far behind many states in making them available to those who want to get away from the honks of horns and the exhausts of motors. Even in such tourist areas as Door County, a continuity in trails is lacking although paths are available in parks.

The development of such trails has been extensive in the eastern part of the

No Governor in Georgia

It appears that Gov. Carl Sanders of Georgia will continue to serve that state well past the expiration of his present term. He was prevented from running for re-election by the state's constitution, but that constitution also provides that a candidate must win 52 per cent of the vote in order to succeed to the office.

The final tabulations of last week's election show Republican Howard Callaway with 449,892 votes against Democrat Lester Maddox' 448,044. But the 57,832 ballots cast for former Gov. Ellis Arnall as a write-in candidate were enough to deny either Callaway or Maddox the necessary constitutional majority.

The constitution then provides that in such a case the governor will be elected by the legislature. But before all the ballots

The New Minimum Wage Scale

Wisconsin's wage laws took a barely perceptible change last week as a new minimum was approved, but already the new scale has drawn criticism from those who think it is too low.

Undoubtedly, opponents to minimum wages of any sort will be next to voice disapproval of the new measure. The State Industrial Commission has been studying the minimum wage for some time and supposedly in great detail. The wage finally approved by the commission will ensure that women and young persons 18 to 20 get at least $1.25 an hour and minors 17 or under receive at least $1.10 an hour as of Feb. 1, 1967.

There were other, more liberal provisions in the minimum wage measure recommended to the commission by its minimum wage advisory board. They included a $1.45 an hour figure for 1968. Commission Chairman Joseph C. Fagan favored the latter increase but Commissioners Gene A. Rowland and Edward E. Estkowski disapproved saying they wanted further study by the advisory board.

During recently concluded minimum wage hearings in Wisconsin, Commissioner Rowland repeatedly expressed his concern over the final decision blaming state legislators for giving the commission the nearly impossible task of deciding a "living wage." Rowland said the minimum wage was a "nebulous thing."

Looking Backward

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Nov. 17, 1866.

Business men in the Atlantic Cities are wonderfully disappointed because the fall trade has not amounted to one-fourth of their expectations.

The South, which it was supposed would largely purchase, made next to nothing at all. The West bright in less than half the quantity of goods calculated upon.

The merchants attribute this state of things to the anomalous condition of public affairs, and to the unsettled state of the public mind in reference to the finances of the country.

Well may men of capital and large business affairs tremble in case Radicalism attempts to carry out its Revolutionary schemes. Their wealth would vanish right speedily in the event of the overturn of representative government.

Thursday, Nov. 13, 1941.

The cast for "Pride and Prejudice," 19th century play on social customs of the times, was chosen at Menasha High School. The Bennett paranas thesis goes, five more people would be alive in Arizona today.

But the real problem goes deep into the mind of the killer and it is doubtful if sane people will ever understand why it happened, what might have been done to prevent it or what can be done to prevent it again. Anyone who takes the life of another has a diseased mind — if not to legal and medical minds, then certainly to ours — and cannot be judged on the same basis as a sane person.

Charles Whitman had a brain tumor and the Chicago slayer was motivated by a sadistic sexual drive. But in Arizona, the accused killer was just too cold-blooded for us to alibi away his acts. He wanted headlines and he got them; he wanted to kill 40 but, thank the Lord, he killed only five.

We can do no more than wonder and then shake our heads.

United States. At least one continuous mountain trail runs from New England into the mid-south. The rights of way of power lines are being adapted for horseback trails. In the far west people have also become aware of the need to preserve some of their wide open spaces for specific activities and in some places trails are set aside even for only motor bike riding.

This fall a bicycle trail was opened going west of Milwaukee. In the western part of the state the right of way of an abandoned railway is under consideration for such development. Certainly in this area, where the number of pleasure horses has grown tremendously and where more and more families like to be out on foot on the weekends, there is a need for specific quiet trails. The use of one ideal area — the abandoned street car line right of way — does not seem to be feasible any longer. But such opportunities must not be lost in the future.

had been counted the American Civil Liberty Union filed suit in federal court to prevent the legislature from making the decision on the grounds that the Georgia state legislature is not apportioned on a population basis as ordered by the U. S. Supreme Court. A three-judge federal court upheld the petition, and now the state's attorney general says he will appeal that finding to the Supreme Court.

Had Callaway been elected he would have been the first Republican governor of Georgia in 100 years. And his strong run against the ultra-segregationist Maddox was a most encouraging development.

The likelihood now is that another run-off election will be ordered, with no opportunity for write-in candidates. So Georgia will yet have an opportunity to reject Maddox.

Nebulous or not, it appears that two of the three men who made the final decision, chose the safe way by neither approving the advisory board recommendation, nor disapproving. As it is, even the minimum wage's strongest opponents will hardly be able to say the new law is unreasonably high.

Restaurant employees will be given credit for tips to equal 10 per cent of the minimum which means tipped waitresses will receive not less than $1.12 an hour in actual salary. Generally, waitresses are now receiving at least $1.10 an hour.

Migrant workers wages, brought to the fore this summer by a march and a strike in Waushara County, have not actually been resolved at all. The law which goes into effect next February will require that at least 65 per cent of the women and young persons over 18 average at least $1.33 an hour, using existing piece work rates. The commission proposes frequent audits to assure compliance with the law concerning wages paid to migrants.

Yet audits and additional bookkeeping have long and vociferously been cited by employers of migrants as reasons for opposing the minimum wage.

Changes in Wisconsin's wage laws, which will go into effect next year, can hardly be termed startling. In fact, they can hardly be called even "changes."

were to be played by Ray Dorow and Mary Jensen with the roles of their five marriageable daughters enacted by Betty Hensen, Evelyn Johnson, Barbara Griffith, Betty Flom and Elizabeth Stuart. Generational Gap Is Affecting Politics in Europe Like U.S.

BY JOSEPH KRAFT
BELLAGIO, Italy — A bare two years after increasing their majorities in national elections, the governments of the three major countries in the West are in trouble. Why?

In the United States, the election made it clear that a gulf has opened between the President and the younger leaders of his party. There is a generational gap.

The same condition applies in Britain and in West Germany, indeed, all over the continent. Extensive discussions with younger Europeans from many countries at the villa maintained here by the Rockefeller Foundation have persuaded me that the generational gap exists as the prime feature of political life on this side of the Atlantic as much as on the other.

As in the United States, the critical dividing line seems to be World War II. The post-war generation has been marked by much more than peace and prosperity.

To an extent never before known in Europe, it has become accustomed to the mechanical appurtenances of life which head up in automobiles. It has also become used to moving back and forth across national frontiers for schooling, business and on vacation. It is truly a cosmopolitan generation.

POLITICAL LAG

In almost all fields the post-war generation has already made its mark. Men who were boys before the war have long since come to dominant positions in the arts, the universities, private business and the public bureaucracy.

But in politics, movement has been far more gradual. The great majority of Europeans emerged from the Depression and the war with the feeling that they had had enough excitement for a lifetime.

Farmers, businessmen of all sorts, and women especially lined up politically behind men and parties adverse to experiment in economic affairs and prepared in matters of foreign policy to live under the American shield. That is why so much of the post-war period was dominated by Con-

Dairyland Black Eye

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Could it be? To have it happen and be publicized right here in the very heart of Wisconsin's great and rich Dairyland; and right in the area of where the great big Wisconsin cheese was produced and made for display at the New York World's Fair. Right here where the backbone of every farmer's income is his monthly milk check. Now comes the startling announcement that the Outagamie County Board in annual session has voted to discontinue the operation of the Outagamie County Hospital Dairy Farm operations consisting of the fine herd of dairy cattle, will sell them, as well as 350 acres of the finest producing farm land in Wisconsin. All because this dairy farm has been operating at a financial loss to the county — is this kind of publicity a good black eye for Wisconsin's great Dairyland? Stop and think! Could it be?

Wisconsin Report

LaFollette May be A Bit Rash in Bid For Party Leadership

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — The business of the professional football player is winning, as Professor Lombardi of Green Bay has been overheard saying, and the rule applies equally to the professional politician.

Wyngaard

The youngest and perhaps the most impressive of the professional politicians of Wisconsin with a state-wide constituency is Bronson LaFollette. He has won re-election to the office of state attorney general in the face of a strong Republican tide. He thus as the lone survivor of his party in important statehouse office stands today in the limelight of speculation about his party's Wisconsin future. No realist can doubt that the 30-year-old LaFollette has had an important role in party management thrust upon him.

It can be said without disparaging his achievement that he won in spite of the manifest reaction of the electorate to the issues and the merits of the parties as a whole. If his name had been Schultz or Jones, or even Smith, for example, it is extremely doubtful that he would have survived, his own performance and its quality quite aside. Yet these are not really relevant in the utterly harsh business of politics and ticket planning. These are the breaks that parties learn to use, even as the professionals in football don't hesitate to capitalize on the inaccurate pass or the fumble of the foe.

THE SPECULATION

Thus an endless speculation about LaFollette and his plans during succeeding months is inevitable. It will be based not only on his unique role as the survivor of "Black Tuesday," as some factional Democrats are calling it, but on the generally known desire of the scion of the state's great political family to emulate the achievements of his ancestors in winning the highest offices on the state ballot.

Considered merely as an arithmetical situation and disregarding contingencies that may arise during the next 18 months, LaFollette stands today as probably the most plausible candidate for the party's nomination for governor in 1968. Yet on closer examination there may be some complications. Others in the party have already passed out hints that they do not regard the attorney general as the only man to be considered in that connection. This plainly intends to communicate the idea that LaFollette will have to fight for that nomination, if he wants it, in a primary campaign.

There is the nearly universal assumption that the attorney general's ultimate goal is the U.S. Senate seat held for more than 40 years between 1905 and 1946 by his father and grandfather. But he faces an awkward calendar, if he considers the governorship as an interim target. To challenge Sen. Proxmire in 1970 — which is involved in such an assumption — he could serve only one term as governor. He will also ponder whether it would be worth risking a probably hard fight for the governorship, and a possible loss, against the probability of comparatively easy possession of the prominent office he now holds, in preparation for the Senate attempt.

Curiously enough, few seem to believe it likely that LaFollette will covet Sen. Nelson's seat two years hence, perhaps because they represent, as nearly as such things can be gauged, the same forces with the party.

PARTY BOSS?

Yet in spite of LaFollette's enviable position — if any position is enviable in a party that has suffered such startling reverses — there may be doubts about his judgment in presuming to take the lead role in reorganizing the party machinery, as the news dispatches indicated last week. The assumption that he is now a more important man in his party is accurate enough, but that he is the most important is rash and unrealistic. Sen. Nelson and Sen. Proxmire are not only his seniors in experience and public performance, but outrank him by a considerable margin in partisan stature and repeated demonstrations of vote-getting ability. LaFollette's announcement of his wishes would have been more gracious if he had awaited their lead.

Thoughts at Large Occupy Harris Today

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS
Perhaps the most precise definition of a small town, regardless of population, is a place where people with money have to go away to spend it the way they like to.

It's hard to accept the fact that a "poor" picture of us really looks more like us than a "good" one — the "good picture" is an artificial distortion displaying our best points in repose, but the "poor picture" shows how we look in action 90 per cent of the time.

Not to drink liquor on principle is as absurd as to drink liquor on principle; some people, I am convinced, are born a couple of drinks under par and need a little liquor medicinally just to make them more human; some are born a couple of drinks over par, and liquor makes them subhuman; our job is to know who we are, and the rest takes care of itself.

Whatever the gun lobby may or may not say about our "right to bear arms," there can be no doubt that we are the most trigger-happy nation in the world, and that — as we are so fond of reminding the marchers — our rights must be balanced by our responsibility or the whole structure of the social order collapses.

In his new book, "Conjectures of a Guilty Bystander," which I am much enjoying, Thomas Merton sagely observes that, "A letter arrives stamped with the slogan, 'The U.S. Army, key to peace.' No army is the key to peace, neither the U.S. Army nor the Soviet Army nor any other. No 'great' nation has the key to anything but war. Power has nothing to do with peace. The more men build up military power, the more they violate peace and destroy it."

One can only admire the schoolboy in English class, required to say which nouns in a list were singular and which were plural; at the word, "trousers," he replied, "Trousers is a singular noun at the top, and a plural noun at the bottom."

The chief advantage of the exquisite courtesy in tennis is that by shouting "Great shot!" to your opponent when he hits a ball you can't get, you are not only complimenting his prowess but excusing your own ineffectuality.

Citizens who agree perfectly with their own police are ripe for a police state, whether they know it or not, want it or not.

"Atomic war is inevitable," says the pessimist; "Atomic war is impossible," says the optimist; "Atomic war is inevitable unless we make it impossible," says the realist. (Copyright, 1966)

Asthma Studied While Ailing Children Sleep

Machines Record Data Trying to Find Symptoms of Attack

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Sleeping children are telling secrets about asthma — a tragic and sometimes deadly disease that grips five million Americans.

Machines record the pulse, breathing, heart beat and brain waves of these youngsters in slumber — and it also records the very movement of their eyes to show when they are dreaming.

Researchers here are looking for patterns that develop before an asthma attack — a constriction of breathing passages that makes the victim feel like he is suffocating. A severe attack can bring death.

Dr. William W. Hahn is conducting the study at the Children's Asthma Research Institute and Hospital. The hospital offers treatment to youngsters 6 to 15 from the United States and abroad.

Limited Admission
Admission is based on the severity of the case and is limited to children who get no relief from conventional treatment.

Dr. Hahn has completed a study based on tests of waking children which shows that asthmatics have different heart beat and breathing rates than healthy youngsters.

"What I'm interested in is what in the nervous system is responsible for triggering this asthma attack," said Dr. Hahn.

He explained that the heart rate and similar body functions are controlled by the autonomic nervous system, composed of two branches which work in opposition to each other.

One speeds up the heart, the other slows it down. Normally, said Dr. Hahn, they achieve a balance or harmony. But he believes in asthmatics the balance is disturbed.

Emotional Problems
Doctors believe that emotional problems can cause asthma, as well as physical factors such as allergies.

Dr. Hahn is hopeful that the study will show whether emotional stress can trigger an asthma attack. His machines can measure psychological reaction by tracing the brain wave pattern, he said.

He also wants to determine in which of the four stages of sleep asthma attacks occur. Stage one, in which a person dreams, is the stage of lightest sleep. The deepest sleep is in stage four.

Rapid eye movements recorded by the machine show when a child is dreaming, said Dr. Hahn. Every dream, he said, although some don't remember their dreams when they awaken.

Different Routes
Dr. Hahn said it may be that psychological strain, allergies and disruptions of normal nervous system activity all lead to asthma by different routes.

"Psychological stimuli may heighten the threshold for the reaction to allergic stimuli," he added, "or stimulate the nervous system."

There may be, he said, a hereditary tendency to asthma overlying all the factors. Asthmatic parents have a higher proportion of asthmatic children than normal parents.

Other doctors are pursuing various leads in asthma research. Dr. Hahn said the disease is too complicated "to expect anything as dramatic as a break-through."

"Many of us have been studying many years on this and I don't feel we are much nearer the answer than we were before," he said.

But the hospital achieves a high rate of success with the children treated there, usually for a two-year period.

Dr. Hahn said about one third lose their asthma entirely and more than two-thirds show "considerable improvement."

The doctors aren't sure just what cures asthma, he said, since so many aspects of a child's environment are changed when he arrives, both physical and psychological.

He leaves his home for a new pattern of dormitory living. The climate is different. Some people think Denver's high altitude is a factor, although Dr. Hahn isn't among them.

The children attend local schools. And last fall the hospital fielded a football team which was undefeated, although its members all carried personal records of severe breathing troubles.

Cuban Airline Buys Planes From U.S.S.R.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The state-owned Cubana Airlines has begun service between Havana and Holguin, in eastern Cuba, with six recently purchased Soviet-built airliners, Havana radio reported.

The 600-mile route is to be flown by the Atonnev 24 planes, which carry 50 passengers and cruise at 350 miles an hour.

To Your Good Health

Breathing Problem Is Discussed by Doctor

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a deviated septum which my doctor says is a bent or distorted partition between the nostrils. I have difficulty in breathing, a post-nasal drip and a sinus condition.

Is there some cure for the deviated septum by medication, or should the partition be taken out? Would this relieve the condition? — A.M.

The nasal septum consists of cartilage, hence can be bent or "deviated" in varying shapes and degrees.

A minor deviation may be of little or no consequence; when the septum is bent enough to interfere with breathing and drainage (causing a post-nasal drip and contributing to sinus trouble) that's another matter.

Can medication correct the bent cartilage? No! This is not to say that some medications may be of help in certain phases of treatment, but it can't alter the shape of that septum.

It is usually wise to try some other measures before resorting to surgery, unless the septum is so severely deviated that anything less than surgery is obviously doomed to fail.

The first and most frequent — and the most often ignored by the patient — measure for relief is to give up smoking.

The distorted septum narrows the airway on one side of the nose, and sometimes in both sides. Smoking irritates the membranes and the congestion and swelling still further narrow the airway.

Stopping this irritation (the smoking) and giving the swollen membranes enough time to shrink to normal may be enough to let you breathe easily. It depends on the severity of the individual case, of course.

I strongly urge trying this first. If trouble persists, then take other steps, perhaps including surgery.

Medications can be used temporarily to shrink the membranes, but should not be used permanently. For one thing, fluid (barium solution) which is opaque to X-rays. Then the shape and size of the bowel is shown clearly in the X-ray. The proctoscope is a long hollow tube with a tiny light which enables the physician to inspect the interior of the bowel by direct vision.

If conservative methods can make breathing reasonably normal, some further help from your doctor may well be in order until you control the sinus condition also. It may take some time, because a chronic sinus infection can be stubborn, but still amenable to treatment under the right circumstances.

If, however, giving up smoking and attacking the chronic infection do not give you substantial relief, then surgery is the correct course.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is X-ray of the bowel the same as the proctoscope test? — J. C.

No. X-ray involves giving a sugar, I suggest that you immediately have your doctor make further tests, including a blood sugar test, preferably one taken about two hours after a meal.

From screening tests, we have learned how immensely common diabetes is — approximately one person walking around with diabetes without knowing it for every person whose diabetes has been discovered.

"Tips On How To Stop Smoking," by Dr. Molner, will help you give up the habit. To receive a copy of the booklet, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper, enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Copyright, 1966)

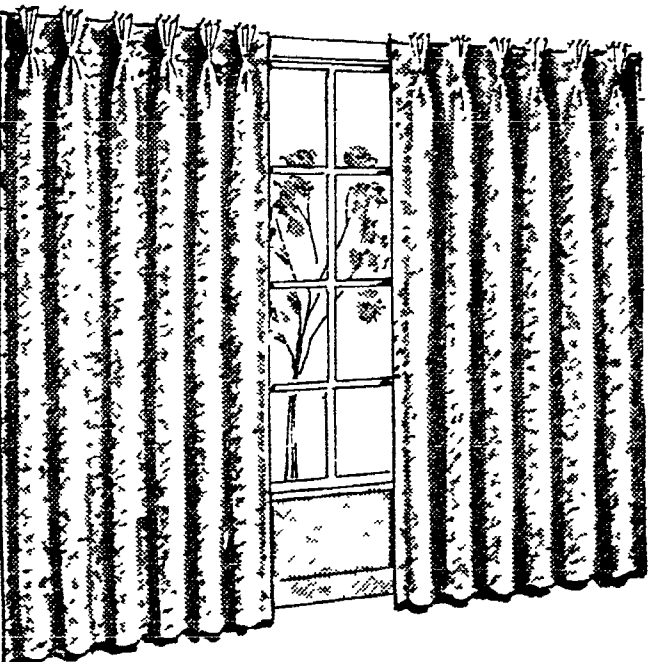

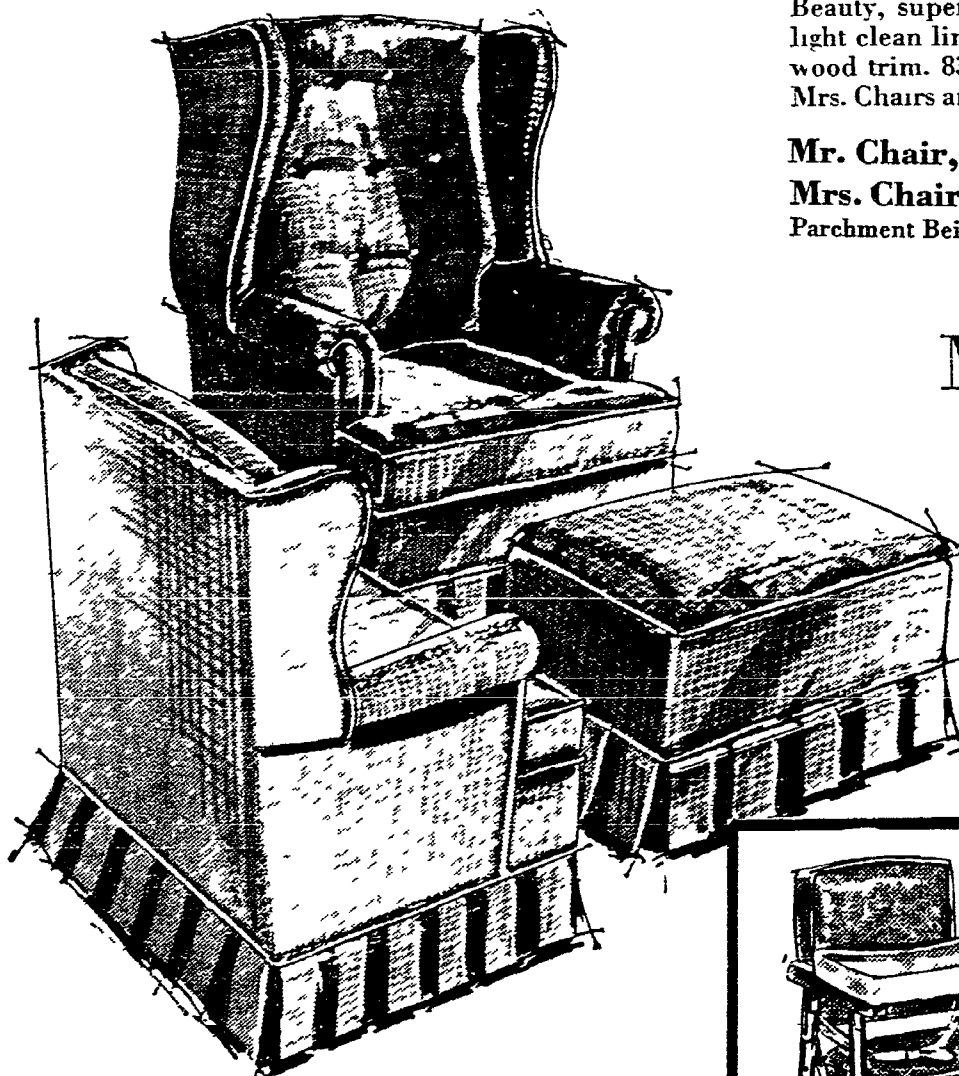

Dear Dr. Molner: A friend recently found she had diabetes and urged me to let her test my urine. The test turned a reddish orange. Does this mean I have it? What other conditions can cause sugar in the urine? — Mrs. L. O.

Your friend may well have done you a big favor. That color shows a great deal of sugar.

Brandt Predicts More of Crisis If Coalition Fails

until after the Bavarian elections Sunday.

Brandt, opening the seventh congress of Social Democratic parties in the six Common Market countries, said a new government "without decisive Social Democratic participation" will be "very difficult" to form.

"A government without or against the Social Democrats," he continued, "is today only possible if the men of the old coalition were determined to perpetuate the crisis. I believe that they would not succeed."

Describing coalition talks, Strauss said they "belong to the most interesting hours of my parliamentary career." But later he told an audience in Weilheim, where he was campaigning for the Bavarian elections, such a coalition would be logical only if the parties came to grips with legislative matters.

Kiesinger, 62, an ex-Nazi who has been minister-president of Baden-Wuerttemberg State for the past eight years, was nominated by the Christian Democrats to try to form a new government after Mende's Free Democrats pulled out of the government three weeks ago in a budget dispute. They took with them the majority that Chancellor Ludwig Erhard needed in the Bundestag to stay in office. Mende was vice chancellor in Erhard's coalition.

Following his session with Mende, Kiesinger was asked if he still had hopes of putting together a majority coalition. He answered with one word: "absolutely."

Spokesmen for the two groups said that they were both still open to negotiations on both sides. They disclosed only that both foreign and domestic problems had been discussed, and that they would meet again Wednesday.

Beware of Icy Bridges, Governor Tells Hunters

MADISON (AP) — Hunters heading north this weekend for the opening of deer season have been given a special safety warning by Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

He asked them to be specially alert for icy conditions on bridges.

"The main burden rests with each individual driver," the governor said Wednesday.

Johnson Doing Well, Has Chat With Ike from his right vocal cord. His doctors pronounced it free of cancer.

Cain said the doctors want Johnson to avoid one of his favorite political tools — the telephone — for at least a few days, to ease the strain on his voice.

Writes Notes

Much of what he has to say, Johnson writes on a pad of paper to save his voice. The doctors want it that way.

There are four sutures of fine steel wire on the right side of Johnson's stomach, where surgeons repaired a rupture in the scar left by his gall bladder operation 57 weeks ago. The stitches will come out in about a week, as the two-inch incision heals.

Cain had some doctors' orders for Johnson's recuperation from that phase of the surgery, too: "We don't want him to do any heavy lifting or things of that kind, and we don't want him riding horses, but walking would be excellent."

He said Johnson shouldn't drive a car, either, for about three weeks.

Leave Hospital

The President is expected to leave Bethesda Naval Hospital within a few days.

"If we could just get him to Texas and get some sunshine, and cut down on some of his appointments," Cain said.

There'll be no problem in getting the President to Texas. Johnson already has said he will head for the LBJ Ranch as soon as he can travel.

But appointments and business are another matter. After White House spokesman George Christian announced Johnson's because of the bloody fighting in Tay Ninh Province.

The U.S. announcement said, however, that 810 Americans were wounded in action during the seven-day period that ended Saturday. The total wounded in the previous week was 605.

The enemy toll increased more than 600. A total of 917 dead was reported the week before. U.S. spokesmen say almost 1,000 Communist troops have been killed in the past two weeks in Operation Attleboro in Tay Ninh Province.

Vietnamese headquarters said more than 50 per cent of the casualties on both sides occurred in the fighting in Communist War Zone C, in Tay Ninh Province.

The U.S. command said the number of Americans missing for the week was 16, double that of the previous week.

The latest casualty reports pushed the unofficial total of the number of Americans killed in the Viet Nam war to 5,949 and the number of wounded to 23,354.

Reuss Proposes Grants to States That Modernize

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Henry S. Reuss proposed today that the federal government give massive, unearmarked grants to states which move to modernize state and local governments.

The Wisconsin Democrat announced in a statement prepared for a news conference that he will introduce legislation in January providing that $25 billion be given in the next five years to states without designation for specific programs.

Last year, Walter W. Heller, former chairman of the council of economic advisers, and Joseph Pechman, of the Brookings Institution, proposed that massive federal grants would be given to the 50 states without any strings.

But Reuss said "it would be pouring federal money down a rathole unless the states enable themselves and their local governments to make the transition to the last third of the 20th century."

Wealth Distribution Called Survival Key

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Distribution of the world's wealth — rather than population control — will be the key to the survival of man, says a Harvard University economist.

Dr. Simon Kuznets told the American Philosophical Society here that the population problem could be resolved best "by changes in economic and social institutions."

Remodeling Bids Asked On Postage Post Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postage, Wis., post office is in for a remodeling.

The Postal Department has informed Wisconsin congressmen that it will seek bids for expansion and remodeling of the building. Bids will be opened Dec. 28.

The project is expected to cost from $283,000 to $317,000.

operation day activities, Cain posted a doctor's dissent.

"He needs to take things easy," the Doctor said. "As you know, he is a hard man to slow down, but we are going to try. I am perturbed at all that has just been mentioned because I would hope that he will slow down and take things a bit easier."

But Cain said another man in Johnson's situation probably would be doing the same things. And he said the President had made remarkable progress in the hours after his operation.

Thirty-three minutes from the operating table, Johnson was writing questions on the back of medical forms. "Tell me something," he asked his doctors.

Four hours after the operation, he saw a small group of newsmen in his white-walled, third-floor suite. He pointed to his throat. "Just sore," he whispered, "but very painful."

LBJ 'Speechless'

Mrs. Johnson said jokingly she had never seen him speechless before. "And we're going to make the most of it," she said. Johnson smiled.

Later, Johnson turned to his note pad to mark down some words on the wedding anniversary he and Lady Bird are marking today.

"32 years of supreme happiness with Lady Bird," his note said, "and both daughters are just as understanding and wonderful, as is son-in-law."

Mrs. Johnson had the White House chef bake a cake for a hospital celebration. Daughters Lynda and Luci, with Luci's husband, Patrick J. Nugent, were joining the anniversary party.

Sen. Young Plans Trip

News Stories Spur Viet Nam Graft Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Milton R. Young, member of a key Senate watchdog committee, is heading for Viet Nam to look into graft and corruption in the handling of U.S. aid and to check on progress of the war.

Referring to a series of articles by Associated Press writers who uncovered numerous cases of graft, theft and bribery, the North Dakota Republican said: "This not only is a loss in economic assistance but a loss of confidence on the part of the local people and the government of the United States when the money goes to grafters rather than the poor it is intended to help."

In an interview, Young said he is deeply concerned about the publicity on graft and corruption, saying the reports indicate between 20 and 25 per cent of the economic assistance "falls into the hands of crooks."

He will be ranking Republican member of the Senate Appropriations Committee in the 90th Congress and also is on the select, seven-member Senate committee which keeps tabs on classified funds for the Central Intelligence Agency.

He said he plans to submit reports of his investigation to both the Appropriations Committee and the special CIA panel.

"The major purpose of the trip is to get all the information I can on progress of the war," Young said, "but I will be spending a major part of my time with CIA and General Accounting Office people in Saigon."

The senator plans to arrive in Saigon next Tuesday, spending about a week in Viet Nam before inspecting installations in Bangkok, Manila and Guam and returning to the United States.

Robber Gets Into a Peck Of Trouble

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The state hopes to send a man accused of armed robbery, Eugene David Massaro, to jail with a kiss.

The kiss, planted on the cheek of a bandit who robbed Miami Beach socialite Phoebe Morse of $2,000 in jewels Aug. 30, is a key to the identification of Massaro in a criminal court trial that opened Wednesday.

Mrs. Morse testified she asked for the kiss, explaining she did so to get a better look at the man, who was wearing dark sunglasses.

On the witness stand, she said the man who kissed her was Massaro.

Massaro's lawyer has said he will present more than two dozen witnesses who will testify that Massaro was somewhere else when the robbery took place.

Jury Acquits Sheppard of 1954 Murder

"Christmas never has arrived this way!"

A jury in Sheppard's first trial convicted him of second-degree murder, and he was sentenced to life imprisonment. He was released on $10,000 bond from Ohio State Penitentiary in 1964 and two days later married Ariane. They began their romance as pen pals when he was behind bars.

Landmark Decision

Last June 6, in a landmark decision, the U.S. Supreme Court ordered Sheppard retried or freed. The court said the original conviction was tainted by "virulent publicity" and what it described as the first trial's "carnival atmosphere."

The retrial began Oct. 24.

F. Lee Bailey, 33, a Boston lawyer, carried Sheppard's case through the Supreme Court and to Wednesday night's victorious climax.

Sheppard had handed his billfold to Bailey, in a gesture of resignation should the verdict go against him and he be returned to jail.

Jury Foreman Ralph J. Vichill, 33, a General Electric Co. engineer, said the jury never considered first-degree manslaughter as an alternative to second-degree murder. He said, "It was a question of guilty or not guilty" as charged.

'Beyond Doubt'

"I had the impression he was not guilty beyond a reasonable doubt," Vichill added.

Powell Cancels Black Power Rally

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., has called off a national black power conference which had been planned in Washington late this month.

Powell feels the conference would "stagnate as long as only one man is responsible for the organizing thrust," he said in a letter sent last Friday to some 800 Negroes who had indicated an interest in attending.

He said he believes a broad-based national committee should be set up for the organizing task.

"Black people themselves must provide the mass basis necessary for success," he said.

Venezuela Buys 74 Jets From Germany

BONN, Germany (AP) — Venezuela has purchased 74 surplus Sabre jet fighters from the West German luftwaffe, the Defense Department said today.

A spokesman said the planes a great satisfaction of course. It's so new now, though."

She said she hopes to bring her daughter here from Germany to live in a lakefront home they recently bought a mile from the house where Marilyn Sheppard was slain.

"Had you two made any plans if the verdict had gone the other way?" she was asked.

"Yes," she said. Then her voice broke, tears came and she buried her face in Sheppard's shoulder. She said no more.

Meteorite Rain Turns Into Washout

NEW YORK (AP) A shower of meteorites turned on a spectacular heavenly display in many parts of the south and west in the United States today, but the show was pretty much a washout for most of the world.

Overcast skies obscured the Leonid meteor shower for millions of ground observers in the United States and Japan. Astronomical observers flying over the cloud levels indicated the touted sky show — forecast to be the most brilliant in more than a century — didn't come off as well as expected.

But in Texas, Arizona, Colorado, Louisiana, Mississippi and West Virginia many astronomical observers watched the shower of meteors later than expected — just before dawn. All reported an exciting display.

'Historic Shower'

The meteors were reported as brilliant in Minden, La., and Meridian, Miss.

At the McDonald observatory in West Texas, N. A. Fain described the meteor spectacle as a "historic shower" and claimed it was much greater than Leonid occurrences of the past. Fain said he was certain the rate of fall topped 500 an hour.

In Buffalo, N.Y., Ernest E. Booth, the astronomy curator at the Museum of Science, said the cloud cover opened only slightly for five minutes and only two meteors were observed.

will be overhauled and flown to Venezuela shortly. He said the purchase contract was signed Tuesday.

Patrol Boats Disrupt Routes of Viet Cong

Disintegration of Communist Structure Seen by Columnists

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

MY THO, South Viet Nam — Ahead of us now, stark against the limpid blackness of the Mekong River, the tracers arched over the barely visible river bank like phosphorescent arrow tips.

They fell short of the U. S. Navy patrol boat which returned the fire from one of its three .50 caliber machine guns, sending a stream of tracer bullets back.

It was midnight on the Mekong, and the sudden exchange came with the swiftness and fury of the briefest tropical storm, then ended.

In our own boat, perhaps 100 yards behind the target of attack from the Viet Cong on the river bank, the gunner grabbed for an M-79 grenade launcher and pumped three quick rounds in the direction of the attackers. "Thoomp, thoomp, thoomp." The sound of the explosions was muffled by the thick cover of jungle that crowds down over the edge of the bank offering perfect concealment even in daytime. Our own patrol boat, sentimentally named "PT-109," swung in a bit toward the bank when we reached that point several seconds later. The bow gunner squatted behind his quarter-inch armor shield, his index finger caressing the trigger guard, but no more shots came.

Later on the routine patrol up Doherty, who helps run one of the island's two trucks, "is it so easy to find a parking place?"

and down the Mekong, a single shot from a large caliber rifle creased the wake of the PT-109 not more than half a mile from home base at My Tho a few minutes before we landed. Although this incident itself was quite unimportant, it illuminates a larger picture of the utmost significance to the hidden war in the Mekong Delta.

The PT-109 is part of an ever-growing force of river patrol boats that travel 25 knots and draw less than one foot. Their mission is to interdict the transportation arteries of the Communist guerrillas who for years have eluded capture and avoided large contacts with the Viet Nam army by hiding in the myriad waterways. Beyond that, their purpose is also to keep open the major canals and rivers that connect the rice-rich delta with the capital city of Saigon.

Although only a beginning has been made, these U. S. Navy craft have undoubtedly disrupted the movement of Viet Cong units. No longer is the Mekong a sanctuary offering a haven and a highway to the enemy. Thus, one more implacable instrument of military pressure has been imposed on the Viet Cong.

Since last June, there has not been a single major contact with either of two main force Viet Cong battalions that are believed to be in this province. This does not mean that V-C control of one-third of the half-million people who live in the province is weakened. The government has simply not extended its control to the hamlets as it has to the Mekong River. But the mounting pressure on the enemy symbolized by the 24-hour river patrol is nevertheless one element in the effort to break the will and morale of the insurgency.

Serious Disintegration

In the neighboring district of Cho Gao, for example, there are indications of serious disintegration within the Communist infrastructure — the minutely organized system of government that operates out of sight and wholly independent of the regular government. The infrastructure is a series of parallel communities or sections of "government" at the provincial, district and village level. Each section has a responsibility of taxing, propaganda, civil affairs, military conscription.

In Cho Gao today, impossible demands are coming down from the provincial to the village level for new Viet Cong conscripts, for taxes, for rice to send north where the heaviest fighting is now taking place. The result is a perceptible decline in morale.

Furthermore, old resistance groups of the early 1950's who were the backbone of the war with the French and have been the backbone of the Communist infrastructure ever since, are getting tired. Some of them are just quitting, others are defecting.

If the government would take political advantage of this corrosion, as it is taking military advantage on the Mekong River, there might indeed be reason to hope. Unfortunately such is not yet the case.

Chief Guard Today Mongrel Named Duke

Once Site of Top Security Prison, Alcatraz Island Now Serene Spot

By HAROLD V. STREETER

ALCATRAZ ISLAND, Calif. (AP) — This sullen little island in San Francisco Bay was once a bustling fortress of tower guards and shrieking sirens. If you came closer than 200 yards — first a warning, then shots.

Now its only alarm system is Duke, a dog of many breeds, mostly collie and shepherd. A dockside microphone picks up the sound of intruders, alerting Duke, whose barking is then transmitted to the custodian's apartment.

Where 1,576 tough convicts once lived in its 29-year history as a prison, now only three people, two men and a woman, care for its 20 rocky acres, its cracking cement and its corroding steel.

Here Scarface Al Capone, kidnaper George (Machine Gun) Kelly, escape artist Basil (The Owl) Banghart and mass-killer William Edward Cook paced away their years. Now the sea spray and the erosion of time tread the island and its cell blocks together.

Custodian of this multimillion-dollar anachronism is John Hart, 53, a sturdy, soft-voiced man who used to train prison personnel, and now enjoys the island's new serenity. His grandchildren played in what is now Duke's doghouse. Both of Hart's daughters were married in the prison chapel, one to an Alcatraz guard.

Hart watches the island for the U.S. General Services Administration.

Living here with him is his wife, Marie. The soothing notes of the electric organ she loves to play are an odd contrast to sounds the island once echoed — the shots of the two-day 1946 riot in which three convicts and three officers died; the hubbub of search parties pursuing the 40 desperate convicts who, at different times, tried to escape, only to be shot down, recaptured or drowned in the Golden Gate's treacherous currents.

Third Resident

The island's third resident is Hart's assistant, 60-year-old William Doherty, a pipe-smoking, retired seadog. He's a bachelor who can whip up a tasty hamburger and provide refreshment on the portable barbecue and bar he has improvised from island salvage.

"This is the life," the gray-haired, stocky Doherty boasts.

"We look over at all those rich folks looking back at us from those hills in San Francisco; we have a better view than they do; we get the fresh air first; and I catch 18 to 20-pound striped bass with this big lure at the shoreline. I don't even have to jiggle the lure. The tide does it."

On Aug. 3, 1964, a presidential commission recommended building a United Nations monument on "The Rock." It would direct world attention to San Francisco as birthplace of the United Nations in 1945.

Today, Rep. Jeffery Cohelan, D-Calif., who has joined with Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., as cosponsor in drafting the legislation, says:

"Now we are waiting on committee reports. The word we get from the Interior Department is generally favorable. We are getting a little static from the State Department."

"I fully expect we will be able to blast off on this when we get back in Congress next spring."

"We've heard some fabulous proposals by private groups who want to be given concessions such as a wax museum," Cohelan said. "These are bad ideas and dangerous."

Newspaper Delivery

"James Bennett, the retired director of prisons, has made it very clear he thinks the memory of Alcatraz should be erased from the face of the earth. Alcatraz should be torn down at once. It was more psychological than anything else. As a prison, it was a costly mistake."

Meanwhile, life goes on at "The Rock."

Every morning, a passing helicopter dips down to within 50 feet of the island. It's Lou Hurler, a newscaster on Bay area traffic conditions for radio station KGO. He drops off the morning Chronicle.

That newspaper and a radio-telephone are the islanders' contacts with the outside.

Two or three times a week, Hart and his wife take their little red fiberglass power boat over to San Francisco for groceries and mail.

Twice a year, a water tanker brings in 175,000 gallons of water for the water tower.

That's part of the story of Alcatraz' demise as a prison in 1963. It was in need of a minimum of $5 million in repairs. And everything had to be brought over.

Ever since a Japanese ship broke an underwater power cable a year ago, the island's electricity has been supplied by a generator.

A GSA spokesman figures it costs around $3,000 a month just to run the island now.

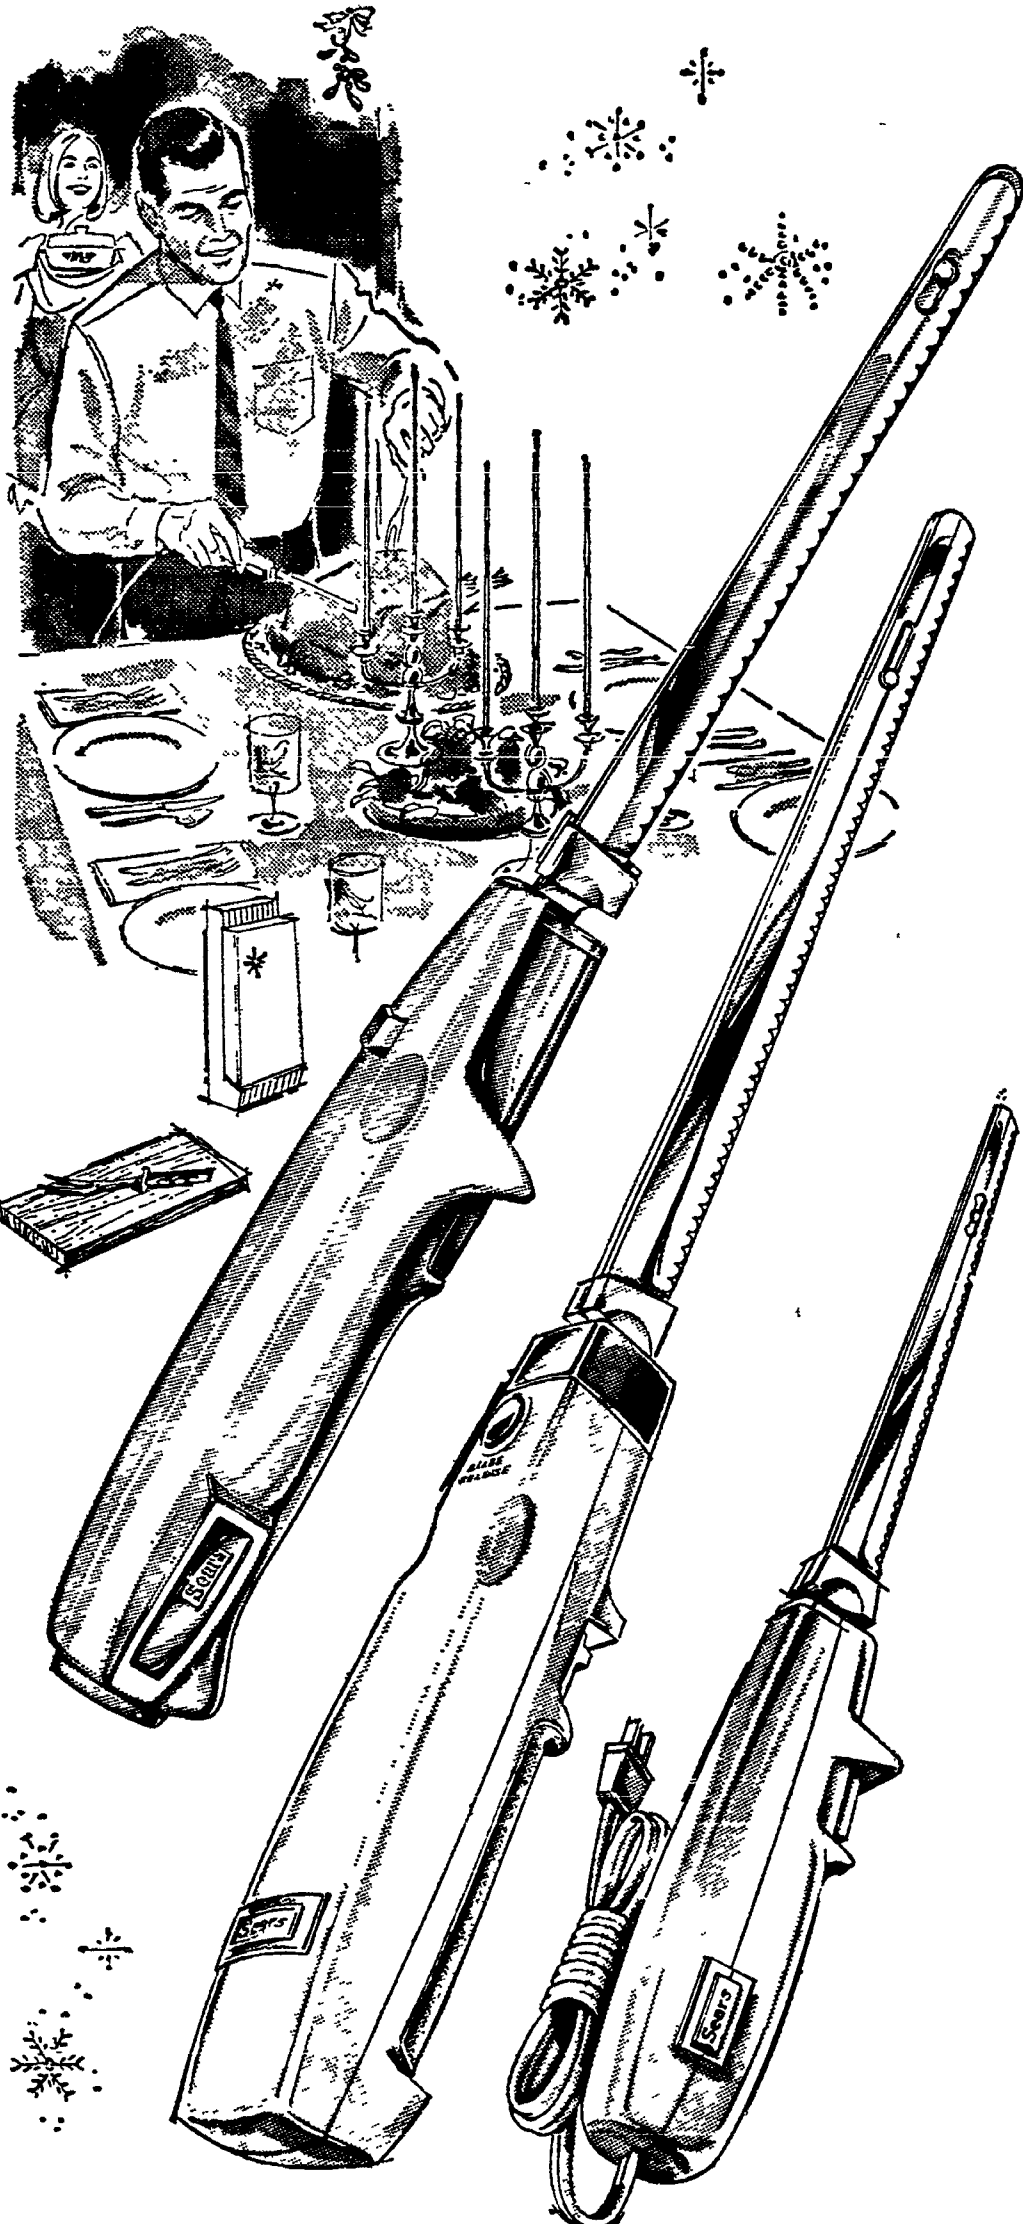

"It was lonely at first after the inmates left," concedes Hart.

"And it was strange not to hear the children of the prison personnel at play in their closed-off compound. But I'm used to it now. I rather like the quiet."

"And where else," chimed in

Alabama Women Know How to Woo State Voters

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Two other women were elected without male opposition. The petticoat's place in Alabama politics seems assured with women holding six of the state's top elective offices. During the Nov. 8 elections, most of the national attention was focused on Lurleen Wallace's smashing victory over two male opponents. But, when the 40-year-old blonde succeeds her husband, Gov. George C. Wallace, to become Alabama's first, and the nation's third, woman governor, she will be joining five other members of her sex who have been chosen by Alabama's voters. Moreover, a woman never has been defeated by a man in a contest for statewide office in Alabama. This year, Sibyl Pool, who started the feminist movement at the state Capitol, drubbed a male foe for re-election to the Public Service Commission. The only other woman challenged by a man, Secretary of State Agnes Baggett, handily moved over to the treasurer's office.

Career Girl Lynda Takes Job, Typewriter Seriously

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lynda White House limousine has pulled up to a curb on busy Connecticut Avenue. Lynda, wearing a suit, alighted with a Secret Service man. There were passersby, but few noticed her in the morning rush. Then, it's through the double glass doors, a smile for the lobby guard and up the elevator to the eighth-floor, beige-carpeted office headed by Christine Sadler Coe, a family friend. Lynda has her own large desk, covered with yellow legal pads, notes, magazines and a telephone. She shares Mrs. Coe's office. Lynda, serious about her job, wants no publicity about herself, no photographs. She says she wants a chance to prove herself first. Her first article may appear early next year, a magazine spokesman said.

Invitations to Charity Ball Mailed Today

An all day work session was held recently by members of the Infant Welfare Circle of The King's Daughters as they prepared invitations to the 1966 Charity Ball. Members met at the home of Mrs. Roger A. Baird, Firelane 14, Menasha, to address envelopes and bring the Circle's lists up to date. Invitations for the Dec. 17 party, annually a social highlight, were mailed today to those who have attended in previous years or who have expressed an interest in supporting the Circle's charity programs through the event. Among those who attend the party are many two-generation groups, with young marrieds finding the event a gala way to set off the holiday social scene. The guest list is revised annually, with new names added to those who have been loyal through the years. Mrs. Roger Baird is chairman of the Charity Ball this year, with Mrs. Darwin E. Smith serving as co-chairman and handling publicity.

Keeping the Invitation list up to date and addressing envelopes occupied members of the Infant Welfare Circle of The King's Daughters at a recent work session at the home of Mrs. Roger A. Baird. The group prepared invitations for the Dec. 17 Charity Ball, to be held at North Shore Golf Club. Working above are Mrs. Ben Schneider,

Montessori Method Stresses Love of Learning, Self-Control

A child should be taught before he enters kindergarten, because he wants to learn. This viewpoint was expressed by Mrs. Richard Romano, an instructor in the Mary Linzmeier School, Green Bay, to the Appleton Junior Woman's Club

Tuesday evening at the Outagamie County Bank building. The Mary Linzmeier method is based on Maria Montessori's educative ideas.

The pre-school child between the ages of two and one-half and six years of age is capable of learning a great deal because he is going through a "sensitive period," Mrs. Romano said. These periods pass, she noted, and once they have the child loses some of his ease and enthusiasm for learning. It is therefore important that the child be taught at an early age, in a "prepared environment" with equipment geared to a child's size and ability.

An atmosphere and special equipment conducive to a child's learning are provided at the Mary Linzmeier School on a day-to-day basis, since the child can learn a great deal and benefit from even one day's session, she said. Classes, limited to 22 children, meet for one and one-half hour periods, since "the child's attention span is greatest during this time."

Applicable at Home
The methods used in the school can be applied at home but teaching is easier in the "prepared environment" of a specially equipped school, she said. The teacher is only a guide, Mrs. Romano stressed, pointing out that the child must teach himself through use of the equipment.

The equipment is to be used in a specific manner, however, and the child must learn to use it properly to develop self-discipline. Children learn through concrete apparatus, she said, explaining that the Montessori method applied in the Mary Linzmeier School covers both practical and sensorial areas.

In the practical realm, for example, a child is shown how to arrange plastic flowers according to size into a triangle shape. Dressing and lacing frames with which he works teaches the child to tilt the buttons on his clothes so he can dress himself with greater ease. Small boards with assorted, reduced-size locks teach the child how to open and close doors properly.

Teaching a Child

Other equipment is designed to develop the child's senses. Cylinders which the child learns to stack are of different sizes so he learns there are various depths and widths, although he may not understand what the terms mean. This he can learn later, she noted.

When teaching a child, make sure both you and the child are in the mood, Mrs. Romano suggested. Have a definite sequence to teach him and use a minimum of words as you demonstrate a method. Stop the lesson before the child wants to, so you don't curb his enthusiasm for learning, she said.

The mother or teacher should strive to help the child build self-confidence. When instructing a child, first show him what to do: for example, how to wash his hands. If he does it a different way, don't correct him; let him finish as he is doing it—as long as the child is trying. At a later time show him the entire lesson again, Mrs. Romano said.

If parents and teachers expect the child to respect them they must also respect the child, the teacher pointed out.

Love of Learning

Children are eager to learn new things and can be taught to do simple tasks like setting a table and dressing themselves, she said. This method saves the mother time which she can then spend with her children.

The Montessori method stresses a love of learning and the development of self-confidence, the Green Bay instructor said. "In a prepared environment the children are taught to learn for their own sakes, and not to please their teachers or parents," she said. "They won't later become bored with conventional schools or those not based on the Montessori method because they have been taught to love to learn."

Ceremony Performed

Miss Beverly Ann Hoffman, 217½ S. Locust St., became the bride of James George Roberts, 908 W. Grant St., at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at St. Mary Catholic Church. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. A Lovelier You

Evening Sizzle

Accessories for holiday evenings are a dazzle of gold, silver and jewels. Straight out of Fort Knox!

Jewelry, both the stones and setting, is large and lavish. The evening purse is designed in a small but rich vein. Slippers squandering would be an elaborately jeweled dress worn with more than one lavishly jeweled accessory. Splendor is one part restraint.

For another, there's individuality — the trinket that speaks of you. Is it a tiny purse of snowy feathers or a silver swagger with rhinestone chains? Earrings that swing around the shoulders or festoon the curves of the ear?

'Outstanding Young Women' Receive Jaycette Recognition

The Appleton Jaycettes honored CAROL Award nominees Tuesday evening at a meeting at the Country Aire Club. Mrs. David Tuch, local CAROL chairman, has announced that Mrs. James Zwack, Mrs. Ralph McHugh and Mrs. Robert Taylor will be entered in state CAROL competition, with judging to take place during the December Jaycee mid-year convention in Appleton.

Five state winners will be announced and honored Dec. 3, with each receiving a certificate and bracelet with an engraved medalion, at the CAROL Award luncheon at the Conway Hotel. The award stands for Achievement and Recognition for Outstanding Leadership. The award was originated in 1957, when the Wisconsin Jaycettes began looking for an effective way to honor outstanding young women of the state. Mrs. E. R. Paulsen, state CAROL chairman, has announced that 98 entries from 57 chapters will compete for state honors. Mrs. Zwack, nominated by the Appleton Junior Woman's Club, has been instrumental in the establishment of the club's Pre-School Vision Screening Program.

Inspired by a magazine article, Mrs. Zwack contacted health groups to determine the need for the program, then worked with the Societies for Prevention of Blindness on both state and national levels for information about such a program. Mrs. Zwack presented the program to the Junior Woman's Club, which gave it full support. The first program was set up in the spring, with 811 pre-school children screened.

The screenings will now be given annually in the fall as a Junior Woman's Club project. In May the project was adopted by Wisconsin's 40 federated clubs, with Mrs. Zwack writing a guide for vision screening programs to be held throughout the state. For her work, Mrs. Zwack has been named to the Board of Directors of the Wisconsin Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Besides this specific project, Mrs. Zwack has also been a member of various civic, church and political organizations and has worked on several fund drives.

By League

Mrs. Taylor, nominated by the League of Women Voters, has been active in the study of Juvenile Law Enforcement and Correction in Outagamie County and was instrumental in a study to have the positions of city clerk, assessor, city attorney and city treasurer appointive rather than elective offices. She serves as secretary of the Appleton Taxpayers Association and chairman of the County Democratic Party. She is also a member of the Fox Valley Human Rights Council.

Mrs. Taylor has served on a number of community fund drives and, in 1964, ran for the office of County Clerk. She has been active in promoting the election of several state and national Democratic candidates.

Employed on a full time basis, Mrs. Taylor is executive secretary to the Resource and Development Department at Appleton Mills.

Mrs. McHugh was nominated by the Appleton Jaycettes for her outstanding work within the Jaycette organization. In the Jaycettes she has served as president, instituting the initiation ceremony, revising the files and setting up a calendar of events for future presidents; compiling a history of the Jaycette chapter since its 1936 founding; acting as chairman of a number of committees, including the 1959 district convention; has been a Miss Appleton chaperone, given talks at

Irreverence Necessary Part Of Man's Changing Values

Irreverent religion has the most creative and dynamic influence on church thought today. "Perhaps in irreverence the highest degree of reverence is to be found," John Stanley, Ph. D. told a group attending the third of a five-session daytime adult class entitled "Values of Contemporary Man". The theologian, introduced by Mrs. Edward Zeiss at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Campus, is a faculty member of the Department of Religion at Lawrence University. His subject was "Is God Dead? The Effect of Changing Values on Religion."

Such questions as, 'How can I believe in a God good and powerful when evil exists in the world?' and 'Why is sexual promiscuity judged by society more evil than war?' may sound distasteful and disagreeable, but they are important questions nevertheless. Those questioning should be more listened to by the middle-age and middle-class group than they are, was the opinion of the speaker.

God 'Unthought' These "irreverent" people question also if God is dead. Doubters are of two groups. Atheists, comprising the first, say God is a lie contrived by priests or a development of the imagination. Those irreverent in the tradition of Christian philosophy are involved in the Death of God "movement". The leaders of this movement disagree over many issues but have one common acceptance: They say, "God is dead." By this they mean the word "God" is a dead word because the word is never part of experience but only dragged into an experience after it happens. Living words are identified with things in the moment itself. God is "unthought" today. As a creator or provider God is not needed. The leaders and their followers also believe the 'being' the word God denotes is dead, whether or not one thinks of him, Dr. Stanley noted

He explained the belief of D. Bonhoeffer, a German theologian, as the root of these concepts. Bonhoeffer believed the world has matured so that a God is no longer needed. Now man can be responsible as his own sustainer. He felt God existed when a "deus ex machina" was needed.

Contrary to Bonhoeffer, Dr. Stanley expressed his own belief that God never was a deus ex machina, that the whole idea of God "pulling the strings of the world" was a wrong and idolatrous idea.

Another question raised by Dr. Stanley was whether the changing values of society affect religion. He replied in the affirmative to this. It is the duty of every theologian to reform, to up-date the church and to challenge beliefs to make them relevant to the times. This is why one should listen to theological reformers no matter how irreverent they may seem.

Depends on Liveness

Religion influences values to day, depending on what is meant by religion, he explained. sources of doctrinal value arise from the complex mixture of reason, custom and faith. Viewing them separately, reason involves agreement on the principle of what is good and also on the soundness of the reasoning. Custom also depends on the acceptance of what is good. Faith, Dr. Stanley explained, is not the intellectual assertion to someone else but the radical, irrational trust and surrender of oneself to another. Faith depends on the "liveness" of the object of faith in the eyes of the believer. "Religion," he said, "preserves through laws and customs values originally acted by faith." Such leaders as Bonhoeffer, Paul Van Buren and Harvey Cox think it is wrong for religion to hold onto values now dead.

Creativity Necessary

Dr. Stanley feels the values of believers now dead may still be important, but these values are static and dead if there is no way religion is creatively and dynamically affecting them. Religion must not be a traditional, institutional force. It must include the irreverent and the dissenter. Religion should create and influence new values.

God should not be external to experience and be dragged into a moment it after it is over, but God should be everywhere on earth, he said, citing the student in a settlement house in Biloxi, Miss. as an example. This is, trusting the living power of love rather than legal solidified ecclesiastical law.

Double Ring Ceremony Performed

Wedding vows were repeated at 1 p.m. today by Miss Margaret A. Schumacher and Timothy G. Strutz. The Rev. George Henseler, O.F.M. Cap., performed the double ring marriage at St. Joseph Catholic Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Schumacher, route 1, Kaukauna. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Strutz, 937 E. North St.

Miss Irene Schumacher, Kaukauna, attended her sister as maid of honor. Sue Ann Strutz and Jean Janssen were bridesmaids.

A cousin of the bridegroom, Richard Strutz, served as best man. Groomsmen were Daniel Boettcher and Joseph Schumacher. Ushering duties were shared by Robert Schumacher and Donald Schumacher. The couple was honored at a reception at Reetz's Supper Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Strutz are employed at Tuttle Press Co. They will reside in Appleton.

Army Has New Weapon For Sweet-Talkin' Hanoi

By DORIS KLEIN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Remember GI Jill, Tokyo Rose, and Axis Sally of World War II days?

Well, the Viet Nam war has a sweet-voiced broadcaster too, Hanoi Hannah.

And to combat her, U.S. Armed Forces Radio is about to launch a blonde, green-eyed weapon of its own.

She's starlet Chris Noel, a mini-skirted 5-foot-6 and 115 pounds, with a slightly husky voice and a wide-eyed look that makes her girl next door one moment, woman of the world the next.

"It's going to be a gas," Chris told an interviewer. "I'm picking the records myself and saying just whatever comes into my head."

"I've been talking to a lot of servicemen and they give me ideas about what they like to hear — but mostly, I think, it's just a feminine voice from home."

Chris is nothing like the World War II radio sirens, says Navy Lt. Richard B. Howard of Armed Forces Radio.

"Even Hanoi Hannah isn't the same. During World War II, you'd get Axis Sally and Tokyo Rose broadcasting to individual GIs. They'd say, for instance, to a single soldier or a battalion, you're wife is cheating on you, or you're going to go into such an action at 0400 tomorrow. It really shook up some of the guys."

"But Hanoi Hannah just plays music the guys like to hear and throws in a little talk to make them homesick. We don't even know who she is — and she's not nearly as effective."

Chris, a onetime baton twirl-

Live Within Your Income

Fiance Afraid to Switch From Easy Bachelorhood

BY MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

I am eager to be married. So is my fiance. But he feels he cannot support me on his monthly net income of $560.

We are both 34 years old. My net monthly salary is $424. I have his approval to continue working for awhile if we get married, but he does not want to count on my salary. I would use it as follows: $75 in mutual funds, the rest in a savings account. My assets are: E bonds, $900; sale of my car, $1,000; liquidation of company thrift plan, $1,100. Total, $3,000.

My fiance's fixed monthly expenses are: rent, $140; electricity and phone, $20; 12 months left on a car loan, with payments of $90 a month. He has no accumulated savings except for one or two shares of inexpensive stock and a few $50 E bonds which have not reached maturity. He does not carry any life insurance.

We have two sets of bedroom and living room furniture and more than enough linens, dishes, silverware, etc. I have no immediate clothing needs, and make 90 per cent of my clothes when I do need something. The only furniture we might wish to buy would be a nice bedroom set and perhaps a dining room set, since his apartment is large (very new modern and elegant) and could accommodate one nicely.

Could you tell me how we might figure monthly expenses? We would drive to work with 90 cents a day parking costs. I would probably take my lunch half the time.

I feel certain that something is amiss if we can't make a go of marriage on his salary. And although I don't wish to pinch pennies, I'm more than willing to make sacrifices. I'd appreciate your help.

P.P., Wilmington, Del.

Dear P.P.:

Sounds to me as if what's amiss can be stated simply: your fiance is afraid of the switch from comfortable bachelor to responsible husband. The risk is emotional rather than financial — for goodness knows many a marriage goes along on a lot less money than you two would have, even after you gave up your job. A man his age who carries no life insurance and has shown little interest in investments or savings, has obviously not geared his thinking to supporting a family at any time in the future.

This doesn't mean his point of view can't be changed. But it's not going to be easy, P.P. He'll have to change his standard of living, too. Try some facts and figures on him, and if they don't bring him around, it may just be that he'd rather not get married anyway!

Fact number one is that it would be entirely practicable and sensible if you helped him pay off the car loan. Number two, you could certainly pay your on-the-job expenses while you still worked. I agree entirely that it's better to plan long-range living on his income alone, using whatever surplus funds you personally have to build up savings and give him a chance to buy some life insurance.

So on his $560 a month (with car payments completed), you could set up a budget along these lines:

Rent, $140; household operating costs, $40; food, $30; clothing, $40; personal allowance for both, $65; miscellaneous, $25; medical, $20; recreation, $40; car operating and insurance, $60; insurance and savings, $40.

Since you already have bed-

Dear Miss Feeley:

Mother eventually will have cataract operations on both eyes by a specialist. Will medicare cover the specialist's bill?

D.W., Fort Wayne, Ind.

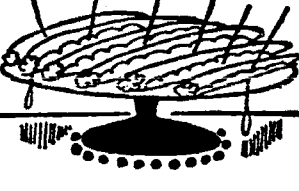

Dear D.W.:

No, it will not completely pay this bill, but it can help. If your mother is enrolled in the $3-a-month supplementary plan under medicare, and if the operation is done this year, then she will pay the first $50 of the current year's doctor bill, and Social Security will pay 80 per cent of the balance.

If your mother is not now enrolled, she will have a chance to sign up in October, 1967. So if the operation can be postponed till then, she will get the benefits mentioned above.

(For Mary Feeley's leaflet on building a financial plan, send 10 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to her in care of The Post-Crescent.)

Don't Take Every Finesse

As everybody knows, a finesse gives you a chance to avoid losing a trick to an opponent's high card. In the recent rubber bridge tournament at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas, one of our leading experts found that a finesse also gives the opponents a chance to defeat an unbeatable contract.

West led the seven of spades, and dummy's king won. Declarer then led the ten of hearts from dummy for a finesse. This would be the correct play only if South had seen the king of hearts in East's hand!

Actually the finesse lost. West returned a diamond, reading his partner's high spade at the first trick as showing an entry in the higher of the two side suits (diamonds are higher than clubs).

East won with the ace of diamonds and returned a spade for West to ruff. West then cashed the king of diamonds, and South was down one.

South should play the ace of hearts instead of finessing at the second trick. Declarer is safe if the trumps break 2-1 and may make the contract even if East has all three trumps.

As the cards lie, the trumps break, and only the king is left out. Now South leads a spade toward dummy. If West ruffs, declarer can get to dummy with a trump to discard the queen of clubs on the ace of spades.

If West discards on the second spade, dummy wins and returns the jack of spades. If shut your own side out of a good East plays the queen, South slam.

Mother Advised to Overlook Poor Grammar of Son's Date

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My son is dating a sweet, attractive girl and I like her very much. She is in her second year of college and for the life of me I can't understand how this girl got through ninth-grade English. She says "I have went" — "between you and I" — "I have the worstest cold" and such things as that.

I'd like to know if you think I should correct her — in private, of course. He has always been tops in English and I just can't believe her poor grammar doesn't bother him. What do you say? — Earache

Dear Earache: I say keep quiet. Your comments, no matter how well-intentioned, will not be appreciated by either the girl or your son.

If he is a top English student, he knows that "between you and I" is incorrect, but apparently he has opted to overlook her slaughter of the language.

A college sophomore who says "I have went" is going to need more than a comment from you to correct the bad speech habits that were developed in childhood.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a very emotional person. Little problems affect me the way big problems affect most people.

I started to write to you about five years ago. Usually by the time I get the problem down on paper I am able to figure out the solution myself. You'll never know how many letters to you I have torn up.

I'm writing today to tell you that I don't have to write nearly as often as I used to. This is my first letter in six months, but I know you are there. Thank you for the dozens of times you have helped me without even knowing it. — Kansas City Reader was a day-brightener. It's wonderful to know I'm getting through. Thank you for mailing this one.

Dear Reader: Your letter

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You must be crazy. Your poor advice to that distressed grandmother who was worried sick because her grandchildren were being beaten black and blue by sadistic parents was shocking. What on earth do you mean, suggesting she talk to the children's teacher and school principal and ask them to be on the alert for further evidence of brutality?

Don't you know about the Juvenile Protective Association and Welfare agencies? Haven't you heard of the police? You should have told the grandmother to report her daughter and son-in-law to the proper authorities. By the time the teacher and the principal do something, the kids could be dead. — Disgusted Reader

Dear Disgusted Reader: One reason it is so difficult to help the brutalized child is that relatives who have firsthand knowledge of the situation refuse to go to the police or to an agency. They can't bear the thought of possibly sending a relative to jail.

The grandmother who wrote made it abundantly clear that she would not turn her daughter and son-in-law over to the police. I chose what I felt was the best alternative. School authorities see children every day and most of them would not hesitate to report parents who beat their children.

Is alcoholism a disease? How can the alcoholic be treated? Is there a cure? Read the booklet "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Wax Plants Make Ideal Holiday Gifts

For a different Christmas plant gift to your indoor gardening friends, try some clay-potted hoyas carnosa or stephanotis, more familiarly known as "wax plants." Delicate, fragrant, white and pink flowers pop from their thick, shiny leaves to produce a colorful holiday display. For the good drainage these attractive house plants must have, keep them in porous red clay pots set on waterproof clay saucers, and give them moderate light.

Ann Landers will be glad to send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamp. (Copyright, 1966)

Hawks Meet Pair of Foes In Two Days

Entertain Assumption '5' Friday,
Travel to Marshfield on Saturday

Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Brad (Bubby) Graff is slated to start for Xavier High School Friday night against Wisconsin Rapids Assumption — and, if he does, he will become the Hawk varsity's first season-opening sophomore regular in five years.

Bob (Rocky) Bleier was the last previous Xavier soph to win a starting berth — in the 1961-2 season.

Xavier, this weekend begins a rigorous, 5-games-in-10-days non-conference card. After meeting Assumption at 8 p.m. Friday in the Xavier gym, the Hawks get their first road test 24 hours later — at Marshfield Columbus.

The probable inclusion of Brad Graff in the starting lineup is part of Coach Gene (Torchy) Clark's accent on youth. Only four of the Hawks' current top 10 players are seniors, while five are soph.

The starting seniors will be Gene Jack, Dan Hardy and Tom Heinritz. Senior Terry Graff is slated to see action as a reserve guard. The brothers Graff, earlier this school year, had teamed to help Xavier win the Fox Valley Catholic Conference football title.

Set to Start

Pat Fitzgerald, a junior, is slated to join Hardy, Heinritz, Jack and Brad Graff in the starting lineup.

Top reserves, other than Terry Graff, are junior Jeff Bartosic and sophs Tom Thompson, Mike Clark and Bob Fullerton. Thompson and Fullerton, both in the 6-foot-5 neighborhood, give Xavier the most height it has ever had.

Other Xavier varsity squad members are Bill Pfeifferle, Greg Steinhorst, Tony Kamasky and Dan Schweitzer.

The 6-3 Hardy is the tallest starter. Hardy was a season-end starter in 1965-6, while Jack and Heinritz were full-season regulars.

Jack scored heavily in last season's double victory over Assumption. He tallied 25 points in a 54-45 victory, and he hit 26 points in 71-48, encore win.

Assumption's Royals have three regulars back from their 1965-6 team, which won 11 of 21 games and finished third in the Central Wisconsin Catholic Conference, on a 9-5 mark. The hold-over regulars are Dick Hyland, 6-1 forward; Jim Weinbauer, 5-10 senior; and Chuck Fenske, 6-3½ center. Other starters will be Dave Dampier, a 6-2 letterman; and Tom Duval, a 5-10 junior.

Bob Olson, who switched from Marshfield Columbus, is a new Assumption coach.

Marshfield Columbus, Saturday's Xavier foe, has only one regular back from last season's state Catholic tournament team. He is the 6-foot-2 Walt Sexton, who will miss the opening weekend of play because of a football injury.

The only other two lettermen are Dick Umhoefer, a 6-0 senior, and Bill Rhymer, a 6-0 junior. The other probable starters on the comparatively short Columbus unit will be Rick Pfahning, a 5-10 senior; Paul Mancl, a 5-11 soph.; and Bob Staube, a 5-7 junior.

Xavier accounted for two of Columbus' 10 losses last season — scoring 61-52 and 52-55 triumphs. The Marshfield school posted 14 wins over-all, riding a late-season hot streak all the way to the state tourney semifinals. Bob Koch, the star of the team, has been graduated.

Boxer Lapses Into Coma Following KO

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Greatest Crawford of Brooklyn, N.Y., lapsed into a coma and was rushed to a hospital Wednesday night after being knocked out by Marion Ronnor in a 10-round light-heavyweight fight.

Crawford, 28, was dropped with a left hook and counted out at 1:39 of the ninth round. He was carried from the ring and taken by ambulance to Timken Mercy Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said there was some sort of pressure in his head and X rays were being taken. He was reported in guarded condition.

Referee Pablo Carapides said Crawford went down with his eyes open and didn't close them until after the count.

Connor is a 26-year-old, 179-pounder from Canton. Crawford weighed in at 170 pounds.

Shoulder Still Bothering

Hornung Doubtful as Starter for Sunday, Now Has Broken Nose

GREEN BAY (AP) — Paul Hornung of the Green Bay Packers now has a broken nose to go with his ailing shoulder.

The sore nose will not keep him out of Sunday's return match with the Chicago Bears; the sore shoulder may.

"I don't know when he'll be ready," said Coach Vince Lombardi of the halfback who hasn't played since the Packers last met the Bears four weeks ago.

"His shoulder is still bothering him," Lombardi said. "I suppose that if he had to play, he could have, but I'm not going to risk a serious injury."

Hornung broke his nose in practice in a collision with line-backer Lee Roy Caffey.

"We were practicing picking

Unitas' Shoulder Bruised, Doesn't Throw in Drill

BALTIMORE (AP) — Even though the Baltimore Colts devoted Wednesday to offensive drills, quarterback John Unitas did not throw a single pass.

And Coach Don Shula reported: "John's shoulder tightened up on him. We don't know what happened but it is bruised. He probably could have thrown today but we thought it best to give him a rest."

"He should be ready by Sunday," Shula added, "but if he isn't we'll have Gary Cuozzo ready."

The Colts play the Detroit Lions in a National Football League game Sunday.

Roughriders in Line For Grey Cup Title

WINNIPEG (AP) — The Saskatchewan Roughriders swept into the Canadian Football League Grey Cup final for the first time in 15 years Wednesday night with a 21-19 triumph over Winnipeg Blue Bombers. The victory gave the Roughriders the Western Conference title best-of-3 playoff, 2-0.

Advise Hunters For Trophies to Go Northward

MADISON — Deer numbers throughout almost all of Wisconsin have shown an increase over last year's high population, and the 9-day season which starts Saturday should be a successful one according to the Wisconsin Conservation Department.

Sportsmen after trophy bucks are urged to go north. Because year after year hunting pressure there is light, hunters enjoy the advantage of an accumulated surplus of older bucks.

While northern Wisconsin hunting is strenuous, it offers much better quality than downstate where many deer are pushed into rifle sights by the large number of people present almost everywhere.

Prefer North

Hunters who like to rely on their ability to stalk deer usually prefer the north which at present has some snow.

Thanks to a long, dry fall, roads and trails are very good for this time of year. Hunters should find marshes and swamps dry. Department fieldmen predict most deer will be in the lowlands where they can take advantage of the feed.

Hunter distribution this fall should be improved over that of the past two seasons because of the high demand and popularity of variable quota permits. The number available has been increased to 59,350, about 9,000 above last year. Only a handful are still available, none of them in the central area.

High Population

In central Wisconsin, deer populations are high, and a good kill of bucks and quota deer is expected again. The kill here, however, will be made up of small bucks, as 75 to 85 per cent of these animals are yearlings.

Excessive hunting pressure continues to be a problem in much of the central range. Many northern counties have comparable populations which are hunted lightly and the conservation department urges hunters to take advantage of them.

Some 408 deer registration stations have been established throughout the state, and sportsmen should consult regulation folders to make certain the spot they choose is a legal registration point.

Badger Cagers Open Against Freshman '5'

Erickson Polishing Sparkling Collection Of Good Sophomores

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer

MADISON (AP)—Wisconsin's basketball season will begin only three hours after the football season ends Saturday.

Two untested teams will tangle at 7:30 p.m. in the annual varsity-freshman game as basketball Coach John Erickson starts the task of polishing a sparkling collection of sophomores into what could become a showcase team.

With Erickson describing the squad as only a year away from being a Big Ten championship contender, the glittering potential of both the varsity and freshman teams has fans eyeing next season even before this one starts.

Seven Sophomores
Seven sophomores will join a varsity squad that has two carry-over starters who are only juniors now. Three imports from Tennessee, Indiana and Massachusetts stand out on the freshman unit.

The junior starters are 6-foot-4 Joe Franklin from Madison, who averaged 11.8 points a game and led the team in rebounds last year, and guard

Stage Set for Heavy Deer Kill as Wisconsin Season Begins Saturday

Central Section of State Will See Excessive Early Pressure

Post-Crescent News Service

CLINTONVILLE — Here, in the land of the shotgun, the stage is set for a heavy deer kill when Wisconsin's 1966 big game season gets underway at 6:30 a.m. Saturday. And success is likely to come to the man who stands and waits.

Barring a sudden change in the weather, the uplands and swamps are going to be dry and noisy when the first roar of a shotgun splits the quiet of the river bottom country that encompasses Waupaca, Shawano and Outagamie counties.

Other Counties
In this east central Wisconsin area, centerfire rifles are prohibited. Here, the local lads and the city visitors use shotguns loaded with rifled slugs to take their game.

In other agricultural counties this restriction also applies. But few of those other areas contain the wild lands and the high deer population that is centered in the blow-sand plain between the Embarrass and Wolf rivers.

Last year, Waupaca, Shawano and Outagamie counties led the state in the total of car-killed deer, in just that order, and ranked high in the gun kill. There are even more deer this year and the car kills are running ahead of 1965. About 20 per cent of the deer killed by autos in the entire state met their doom on the roads in these three counties, approximately 2,000. The area where the three counties run together also rates highly with bow hunters who, thanks to an extended daylight

While Philadelphia continues winning games at a ridiculous pace in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association, the St. Louis Hawks are beginning to show signs of life in the West.

The Hawks' 104-101 victory over Detroit Wednesday night was their fourth victory in a row and boosted them to just a half-game behind San Francisco, which leads the division.

Without a superstar, the Hawks have had to make their breaks with teamwork and Wednesday's game at Detroit was a good example. No less than seven St. Louis players scored in double figures, but the leader, Bill Bridges, only had 22.

In other NBA games, Philadelphia beat New York 117-108 and Los Angeles took Cincinnati 124-112.

Fight Every Inch
 The Hawks had to fight every inch of the way to beat the Pistons, who overcame a 12-point deficit to tie the game early in the fourth quarter. St. Louis pulled away only to find Detroit coming on again before two quick baskets and a free throw by Bridges put the Hawks out of reach.

The 76ers won their sixth game in a row at Philadelphia and made their record a heady 13-1. The Knicks stayed about even for most of three quarters, but Hal Greer and Walt Chamberlain led them a merry chase after that. Greer ended up with 35 points and Walt finished with 28. Walt Bellamy led New York with 20.

Jerry West and Rudy LaRusso each scored 36 points in leading the Lakers past the Royals at Dayton, Ohio. The game was even through three periods, but Los Angeles poured it on in the final quarter, scoring eight points in a row at one point. Oscar Robertson and Happy Hairston each had 24 points for Cincinnati.

Wayne Lutz, Bob Simon Honored at Final Banquet for AHS Football Team

Werner Witte Award Presented To Paul Ziemer; Harriers Cited

 Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Wayne Lutz and Bob Simon received two honors apiece Wednesday night at the Appleton Lions' Club 23rd and final banquet for a combined Appleton High School football squad.

Next year, AHS will divide its athletic talent between the East and West branches. A number of references to the forthcoming division came up at the erand-ing banquet in the Appleton Legion clubhouse.

Simon was named the "most valuable offensive player" and honorary co-captain. Wayne Lutz was accorded the other co-captaincy, as well as being selected the "most valuable defensive player."

The Werner Witte award — one of the most prized on the AHS athletic scene — went to Paul Ziemer. The award, named for the late AHS athletic director, is given for all-around achievement — good grades, loyalty and good citizenship, as well as football ability.

Name Captains
 The Terror cross country team, which was feted along with the grid squad for the fourth year, announced the selection of honorary co-captains. They are senior Randy Thomas and junior Scott Schultz.

Football coach Ade Dillon awarded letters to 21 seniors and five juniors. Cross Country coach Herb Simon presented letters to three seniors, four juniors and two sophomores.

In a brief summation of the Terror's 5-3 season, Dillon said, "I think you have to call it a successful season even though we didn't reach all the goals we hoped for. In no game were we disgraced or beaten physically. The Packers wonder, too, why they lost two games to lower-ranking teams."

Senior football letter winners are Jeff Bruch, Don Dafoe, Steve Eggert, Pat Garvey, chairman of the Lions football committee that arranged the dinner. Bob Lloyd was master of ceremonies.

Lutz, Gary Lutz, Jim Michaliewicz, Keith Mossholder, Pete Olson, Todd Popp, Tom Reizner, Simon, Gary Vivoda and Zierner.

The five junior lettermen are Terry Calder, Craig Rusch, Steve Shepard, Bill Stroess and Dennis Wiesner. Dillon indicated that Wiesner would be the only one of the quintet to return to AHS West next season, while the other four would be going to AHS East.

Simon, the AHS athletic director as well as cross country coach, noted that for the first time in four years he had no championship harrier team to introduce. He emphasized that this year's group — which had little experience at the start — worked just as hard as any squad he's had. He lauded the runners for the improvement they showed over the season.

Bill Hart, Lions club president, gave the welcome, while the Rev. Leonard Zierner presented the invocation. Dr. William Dafoe spoke on behalf of the parents. Roland Marx was

Cowboys Lead in 4 NFL Categories

Packers Best in Pass Defense, Rank Second in Overall Figures

NEW YORK (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys hold the lead in four of the six major team categories including total offense and total defense in the National Football League, the latest figures revealed Wednesday.

The Cowboys, with five games remaining, are setting the pace in total offense with an average gain of 418.4 yards and in total defense with a yield of 235.3 yards a game.

Dallas also is No. 1 in passing offense with a 265.8 yard average and rushing defense, 73.4 yards.

Browns Runnersup
 The Cleveland Browns are the runners-up in total offense with a 361.7 yard average followed by the Baltimore Colts, 345.7. The Green Bay Packers are No. 2 in total defense with a 240.7 yards-a-game mark.

The Browns remained tops in rushing with a 168.7 yard average and Green Bay leads in pass defense with 124.2 yards.

League Switches Cage Tilts Due To Deer Hunting
 ELCHO (AP)—The opening of the Wisconsin deer hunting season Nov. 19 will be noted in one high school athletic conference.

Northern Lakes league officials have arranged to have their schools play basketball games Thursday instead of Friday night, eve of the hunting season opening. The deer hunter highway movement, they reasoned, will be heavy enough without adding cage team and fan traffic.

Spartans Show Domination In Statistics

Lead Three Major Departments; Wolves Display Consistency

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan State's sharpness, as it grows for Notre Dame Saturday, is reflected in Big Ten team statistics Thursday that show the champion Spartans leading in three major categories.

They are tops in total offense with an average gain of 354.4 yards per conference game; in rushing with 223.9; and in defense, holding foes to an average of 222.4.

Michigan, buried in the title race with a 3-3 mark, actually has the most consistent record of all. The Wolverines' balance is displayed by their second-place showing in all four major departments — rushing, passing, total offense and defense.

Makes 'Save of Year'

Glenn Hall Sparkles as Hawks and Rangers Tie

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

Glenn Hall is back in the Chicago Black Hawks' nets and it's no coincidence that the Hawks have allowed the fewest goals and are leading the National Hockey League.

Hall made what New York General Manager Coach Emile Francis called "the save of the year." Wednesday night, protecting Chicago's 2-2 tie against the Rangers in the only NHL game played.

The big save came on Orland Kurtenbach in the second period. Billy Hicke had shot the puck and Hall steered it away. But Kurtenbach, a rangy center, picked up the rebound on Hall's front step with the Hawk goalie bending the wrong way.

"There was nothing but net when I shot. I thought it was a sure goal," Kurtenbach said.

Gloved Puck

Somehow Hall reached up and gloved the puck, saving the goal.

"I just reached across for it," Hall said later. "It was a tough chance."

After that the game settled into a tight defensive struggle and the teams played scoreless hockey after Bobby Hull's power play goal tied the game at 12:08 of the second period.

Hull's seventh goal of the season came with Kurtenbach in the penalty box. He turned Chico Maki's goalmouth pass behind Ranger goalie Ed Giacomin.

Hull thought he had given New York its first goal when he fell across Hall's legs after Rod Gilbert shot at 2:19 of the opening period. "I was trying to control the puck but instead I pulled it into the net when I fell," he said.

Was in Net
Gilbert agreed. "I thought Hull had made the save but then I saw Kurtenbach with his stick in the air so I knew the puck was in the net."

Wally Boyer tied it on a 10-footer midway through the period and then Bob Nevin put New York back on top with 1½ minutes left in the period. Then came Hall's key save on Kurtenbach and Hull's goal.

It was Hall's fourth game since ending his announced retirement to care for his 160-acre farm in Edmonton, Alta. He has allowed just six goals.

"It's too bad," cracked Francis, "that he doesn't have 6,000 acres instead of 160. Maybe then he would've stayed away."

The tie extended New York's unbeaten string to four games and moved the Rangers into a tie with idle Toronto for second place in the NHL, three points back of Chicago.

Young Hobby Club

Be a Leaf Collector

Keep Colors Fresh, Clear

BY CAPPY DICK

Leaf-collecting is a hobby in which a boy or girl can learn a lot about trees — which maples have the most beautiful displays of orange and yellow, which oaks drop glossy leaves that are almost purple, which maples show red veins in the leaves, and so on. You can search for the scarlet and yellow leaves of the Boston ivy and for the fern-like crimson plumes of the staghorn sumac. Gather as many kinds of leaves as possible.

Press them in an old catalogue To avoid spoiling the pages, place each leaf between two sheets of waxed paper, aluminum foil or sandwich-wrap plastic. Let them remain for several days until they are flat. The next step is to preserve them.

One way is to put each leaf between two fresh pieces of waxed paper and run a warm iron over the paper, sealing the leaf between the sheets. However, the wax will cloud the colors of the leaf, hiding much of its beauty.

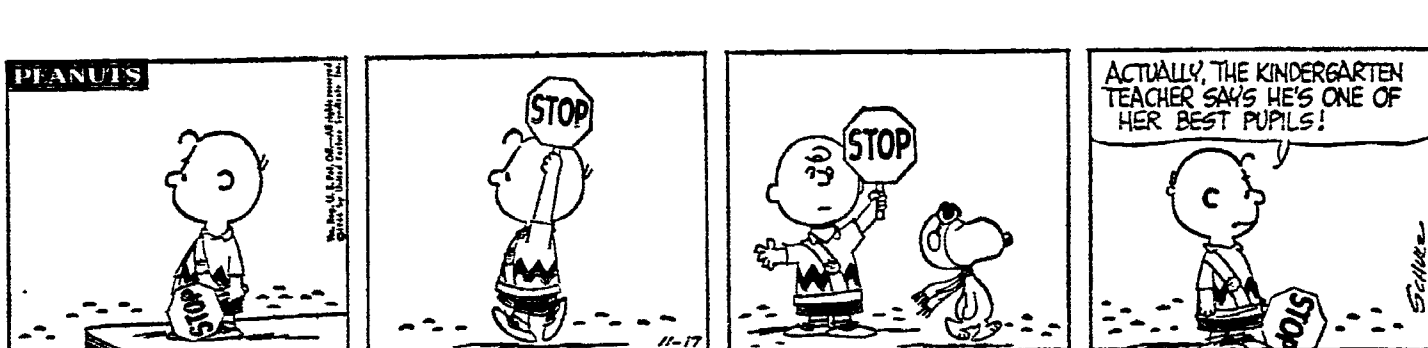

Another method is to rub each leaf gently with floor wax until the entire surface is covered and has become shiny. This is my favorite method.

The specimens may be mounted on the pages of a scrapbook, but another way to display them is shown in the illustration above. With thumbtacks fasten a big sheet of pastel-colored construction paper to the wall of your room. Attach the leaves with paste, glue or transparent tape.

Phantom Arouses Irish '11'

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — If Notre Dame should beat Michigan State Saturday in their game for the probable national college football championship, a special letter will have to be awarded The Phantom.

Who is The Phantom?

Well, nobody exactly knows around here, or maybe they do. He is the mysterious character who feeds the Notre Dame players emotional thunder before their big games.

Locker-room exhortations are common in varsity dressing quarters throughout the land but nowhere do they strike the same inspirational note as they do underneath the famed golden dome which resounded to the fiery oratory of Knute Rockne and tear-jerking appeals of Frank Leahy.

The Phantom is part of the pattern.

Locker of Player

On the bulletin board of the Notre Dame dressing room and neatly tacked on the locker of each varsity player is a type-written note signed merely, The Phantom.

It wouldn't be ethical to give the full manuscript of The Phantom's latest appeal in regard to the Michigan State game—it's Notre Dame's family business—but here is a guarded sample.

The Michigan Staters are a bunch of bullies, The Phantom says. Last year when they won "they tried to swarm you. They got belligerent. They outbluffed you. Their defensive team on the beach screamed and yelled."

To counteract this assault this year, says The Phantom to all red-blooded members of the Fighting Irish, "we need great pride, great spirit, great effort and hustle. We can—and must—win."

Famous Campus Tradition is knee deep on this famous campus and if an 18 or 20-year-old youngster can't be touched by it with a fighting tear in his eye, he doesn't deserve to wear the green.

As every Notre Dame player enters or leaves the locker room he must pass a huge billboard on which are pasted game pictures of the rival team—this week Michigan State.

"Bob Apisa," it says over the head of the Michigan State fullback. "Great speed and power, great desire. Must be stopped."

Of Clint Jones: "One of the best backs in the nation. Great speed, hard to tackle. Must be stopped."

Of end Gene Washington: "Very fast, great hands. Must be stopped."

A sign in Coach Ara Parseghian's office says, Enthusiasm is the team keynote.

Another locker room sign reads, We Fear None—Respect All.

A Kahuna award is given weekly to the outstanding lineman. Kahuna means: Knock And Hit Until None Arises.

Bronze Tablet

Notre Dammers adjusting their shoulder pads may gaze on a conspicuous bronze tablet on which are engraved these words of George Gipp, Notre Dame star of half a century ago, from his death bed:

"I've got to go, Rock, (addressed to the late Coach Knute Rockne) it's all right. I'm not afraid. Sometime, Rock, when the team's up against it, when things are wrong and the breaks are beating the boys, tell them to go in there with all they've got and win one for The Gipper. I don't know where I'll be then, Rock, but I'll know it and I'll be happy."

Things may go bad for the Irish Saturday at East Lansing. In which case, a lot of strong young bucks who have only a faint idea of who Rockne and George Gipp were will go out and try to win one for The Gipper.

The Irish have been doing it for years.

Tab Georgia For One Berth In Cotton Bowl

DALLAS (AP) — The Georgia Bulldogs will be named to oppose the Southwest Conference representative in the Dec. 31 Cotton Bowl football game, the Dallas News said today.

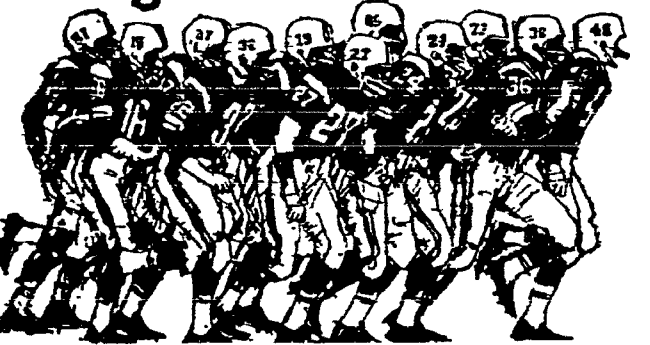

Bowl officials will make public the name of the visiting team Monday, the day the National Collegiate Athletic Association permits such announcements.

The Southwest Conference champion is the host team each year. It is expected to be Arkansas, which needs only to defeat off-beaten Texas Tech Saturday to win its third straight title.

Both Arkansas and Georgia have won eight of nine games going into their finals Georgia, ranked ninth in the latest Associated Press poll, closes against No. 5 Georgia Tech Nov. 26. Arkansas is sixth.

The News said Georgia became the top choice for the Cotton Bowl when word got out that Nebraska favored a trip to the Sugar Bowl, where Alabama is expected to go.

Lloyd Hackel, Rich Spierings Get Awards at Little Chute Program

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

LITTLE CHUTE — Dedication, sacrifice and humility were cited by Bob Long, of the Green Bay Packers, as three of the most essential items going into the makeup of a successful football player when Long spoke at the annual football banquet for the St. John High School team Wednesday night.

The fete, sponsored by the Athletic Association, was attended by over 200 persons.

Long pointed out how Packer Coach Vince Lombardi impressed on all of the players the importance of being dedicated to your work. Long also mentioned Packer quarterback Bart Starr as a shining example of how humility shows in a player.

Still Recuperating

The Packer flanker, who is still recuperating from knee surgery said his knee is getting stronger right along and he is hopeful of seeing action this Sunday against the Chicago Bears.

"I can run well," Long said, "but the knee still tires quickly after a prolonged drill."

Long made a special presentation during the program to St. John senior fullback Marv Vandehoy for his outstanding spirit and teamwork during the season.

Coach Avitus Ripp of the Dutchmen presented letters and various awards. Senior end Lloyd Hackel was presented the sportsmanship award for his all around contribution to the team as co-captain during the season and Rich Spierings received the Jaycee award as the outstanding senior lineman.

Seniors who were presented letters by Ripp included Dennis Locy, Tom Felzer, Vandehey, Dan Lamers, Spierings, Gary Van Lankvelt, Don Eckes, Jack Van Vreede, Tim Hartjes and Hackel.

Harvard Tops in Rushing; Tulsa Sets Pace in Passing

NEW YORK (AP) — Houston has increased its lead in total offense among the nation's major-college football teams, the latest figures compiled by the NCAA Service Bureau disclosed Tuesday.

The Cougars gained 649 yards in crushing Kentucky 56-18 last Saturday and lifted their season's total to 3,473 for an eight game average of 434.1 yards a game. Notre Dame is second with a 404.4 average.

Harvard remained the No. 1 team in rushing offense with a 275.4 average while Tulsa took over the lead from Texas Western in passing offense. Tulsa has gained 269.5 yards a game and Texas Western 252.6.

Notre Dame is the pace-setter in scoring offense and defense. The top ranked Irish, who meet Michigan State, runner-up in the Associated Press poll, this Saturday, have averaged 37.6 points scored and 3.5 points against for eight games.

Stage Set for Record Kill of Deer in State

These restless ones will be moving about. When they move, deer move and they, in effect, act as drivers for the man on a lonely stand.

But the hunting parties, the gangs with drivers and standers, are also going to get deer, probably in higher numbers than they ever got in this area. For the past two deer seasons the swamps have been so wet as to be impossible to all but the most devoted maniac wearing hip boots. Hotly pursued deer are not afraid to break ice or get their hooves wet and the soggy swamps and flooded river bottoms provide refuge.

They won't this year. The swamps are dry and it will take torrential rains to change that pre-season fact. Even hard rains will only make low rubber boots necessary. As of now it is a rare area that can't be negotiated in leather hunting boots.

So the hunting parties who know the country and know where the deer are (they are on the increase since more and more sportsmen bow and arrow each year, familiarizing themselves with the county and the game before the gun season begins) will organize successful drives of the now dry deer havens.

Two Factors

Two factors are involved this year. Hunters who can stand still and wait will get their deer. The woods will be noisy. A quiet woods is seldom an aid to any hunter, so few are the stalkers left. But a noisy woods is an advantage to a patient hunter who will wait out his deer on a stand. For just as a deer can hear a man moving about, so can a man hear a deer in motion when the footing is dry and crackling.

A hunter on a stand should be able to spot almost every deer that moves within the restricted range of his shotgun. When the woods is quiet, even the most alert and observant hunter will be looked over by deer that will then move on unseen.

So a man will not have to hunt with a gang in order to see and shoot deer this fall in the shotgun land. Relatively mild weather also means less discomfort when standing. For there are more hunters who will not stand or cannot remain immovable or silent on a stand.

Party Permits

But the stage is set. The Wisconsin Conservation Department has cooperated by including this tri-county area in game management units 62 and 63 making 5,550 party permits available in those two areas. This liberal allowance of a deer of any age or sex for parties of four hunters, in addition to the buck each hunter is allowed, is exceeded only by game management units 55-56 in Jackson, Clark and Wood counties.

So unless the weatherman throws hunters a curve, the rest is up to them. But a word to the wise for hunters who are unacquainted with the area. While heavily and efficiently hunted by local residents, if the visiting hunter hasn't made private arrangements with a private land owner and expects to get out of his car, he'd best plan to do his hunting on the public hunting grounds. There are some large ones, Mack and County Trunk M in Outagamie County, Navarino in Shawano County, Hunting in Waupaca County, and Deer Creek on the Outagamie, Waupaca County border. Most private lands, particularly the mixed agricultural and woodlot country that deer find so entrancing, are tightly posted against trespassing.

Some landowners are reserving hunting country for their own families and friends. Even more are justifiably apprehensive about the onslaught of hunters, indiscriminate shooting and irresponsible behavior which too often plagues an area which transient hunters discover holds plenty of game.

Estimate 150,000 Geese at Horicon

HORICON (AP)—The Canada goose population in and around the Horicon National Wildlife Refuge stands at a record 150,000. Refuge Manager Bob Personius said Wednesday.

About half of the geese are on the refuge, it appeared from an aerial survey. Personius said cold, stormy weather in the south and a good local corn crop combined to hold the birds in Wisconsin.

Running Targets There will be a drawback to the possibility of a record kill. Because deer will be pushed as they haven't been pushed for years more running targets will be presented than is customary when deer move at their own pace or are only mildly disturbed.

At best, the shotgun with slugs is not noted for pinpoint accuracy. In the hands of the bulk of the hunters using them, whose ability with even a centerfire rifle on moving game is highly questionable, the situation means there'll be plenty of lead flying, a lot of lucky-shot cripples impossible to track, and consequently plenty of arguments between hunters as to who is the rightful possessor of a wounded buck.

The one-shot, instantaneous kills will be few and far between, limited largely to the first hour of every hunting morning before restless hunters

Badger Cagers Open Against Freshman '5'

Mike Carlin, who carries a 10.3 average.

Three of the sophomores—Jim Johnson from Memphis, Tenn.; Keith Burlington from Monroe, and Chuck Nagle from Milwaukee Marquette—averaged more than 20 points a game on the freshman squad last year.

They are backed up by ball-hawking John Schnell of Cumberland and 7-foot Eino Hendrickson of Holmen, both Wisconsin all-stars as were Nagle and Burlington.

The freshmen are led by 6-foot-8 Albert Henry from Memphis, 6-foot-6 Dave Zink from North Quincy, Mass., and 6-foot-3 Dave Black from New Castle, Ind.

Freshman coach Dave Brown said, "Black is the big guard, who's always played big guard, who can move and jump and shoot."

Brown called Henry a rugged rebounder with a shooting touch and noted the Tennessee newcomer, at four inches shy of seven feet, was only 17 years old.

"We think he'll grow," said Brown.

DETROIT (AP) — "You can only play as hard as you can and hope it turns out for the best," said Mike Lucci, the Detroit Lions' middle linebacker.

It turned out for the best Sunday for Lucci. He intercepted three Minnesota passes and ran one back for a touchdown as well as playing an excellent all-round game.

The Associated Press named him the National Football League Defensive Player of the Week.

"He did everything well Sunday, pass coverage, pursuit and everything," said linebacker coach Joe Schmidt.

Schmidt, who was a star middle linebacker for the Lions until last year, declined credit for coaching his successor.

Had Experience "He's got everything on his own," Schmidt said. "He had experience with Cleveland and here and he just now got a chance to play and show what he can do."

"He filled right in and week by week you could see him improving," Schmidt said. "He should be ranked right along with any middle linebacker in the league."

Coach Harry Gilmer said,

"Mike has had a fine year. He's played consistently well for us all year. He had an outstanding game last week. But we've felt he's had a lot of good days."

Gilmer gave Schmidt a lot of credit for Lucci's work, saying, "Joe has had quite a lot of influence over his play. Joe is a good coach. He has the knack of saying well what he wants to put across."

Played As Rookie Lucci, 6-foot-2 and 228 pounds, played for Cleveland after leaving Tennessee. "I played every game as a rookie," he said, "then off and on through the other two years there." He was traded to Detroit just before the 1965 season opened and played several games with Detroit. When Schmidt retired, Lucci stepped in.

"They were throwing patterns where I was covering the second back and I got there when the ball did," Lucci said of his interceptions, a major factor in DETROIT'S 32-31 victory over the Vikings.

Just before the 1965 season, Detroit traded quarterback Earl Morrall to the New York Giants in return for Lucci and Darrell Dess.

Shortly before, the Lions had traded Dennis Gaubatz, a middle linebacker, to Baltimore for Joe Don Looney and a draft choice.

Lucci said Schmidt had helped him with his play, but said he didn't feel any particular pressure at replacing the longtime Lion defensive star. "I felt like I was ready to play full time at Cleveland," Lucci said. "He's certainly been a pleasure for us," Gilmer summed up.

Kimberly Board Approves Teacher Annuity Program

KIMBERLY — At the request of the Kimberly Education Association, the board of education Monday night adopted a tax sheltered annuity program whereby payroll deductions will be made from teachers' salaries, upon request, to be set aside for future use.

An insurance company desiring to participate in the program must secure three employees willing to have deductions made before the bookkeeping department will institute the program. If a teacher transfers from another system, he will be permitted to keep the company of his choice.

The board signed a petition requesting the village to annex 17 acres of school district land, currently in the Town of Buchanan, located south of the high school. Land for the extension of John Street in front

Weak Knowles Vote in Valley Is Perplexing

University Fight
Considered Factor
In Poor Showing

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Gov. Warren P. Knowles Tuesday said he shares the perplexity of others who have wondered about the fact that he ran poorly in traditionally Republican districts in the Fox River Valley in the Nov. 8 election in which he won a decisive majority in the state as a whole and carried some long-time Democratic precincts.

The question turned up at his first post-election news conference when he was asked about his 'comparatively slim margin of victory in Republican Outagamie County.

Was that because of local resentment incurred because of the state's decision during his first term to locate a branch campus of the University of Wisconsin near Green Bay rather than in a location more accessible to Outagamie county, asked a national news service reporter?

"I have no way of knowing," Knowles said, and then added: "But I suspect that there is little question about it — there was some pique and frustration there. Perhaps there was not enough local campaign organization."

The governor was reminded that he also ran unexpectedly close to challenger Patrick J. Lucey, the Democratic nominee, in neighboring Brown County, which won the University-site contest.

Knowles would say only that he "has no way of assessing it."

But he asked reporters to remember, in analyzing the voting trend, that the number of votes polled last week was considerably below the totals in the presidential election of 1964, in which he won his first term by a margin of about 18,000 against the 87,000 statewide plurality polled in his victorious second term drive.

Seymour Man Gets Huber Law Jail Sentence

A 25-year-old rural Seymour man, who earlier pleaded guilty of taking a car without the owner's consent, this morning was sentenced to four months in the Outagamie County jail.

Judge Gustave J. Keller recommended that Richard Jarosinski, route 3, be allowed to serve his sentence under provisions of the Huber Law.

Jarosinski was charged with taking a 1958 car owned by Henry Van Bostel Jr., route 2, West DePere, while the car was parked in Seymour on Oct. 23. The car later was found in flames on a town road near Seymour.

The court was told this morning that Jarosinski and two youths, ages 15 and 17, took the car because Jarosinski needed a ride to pick up his truck at a park four miles from Seymour. One of the youth's was driving the car back to Seymour when it caught fire.

Jarosinski has been in jail three weeks. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered after he pleaded guilty on Oct. 28.

Thilmany Makes 3 Sales Shifts At Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — Three changes in sales responsibilities at Thilmany Pulp & Paper Co. have been announced by L. R. Graef, vice president for marketing.

In the realignment of personnel, R. B. Vogt will become product manager, protective papers department. D. G. MacDonald will become manager, technical sales department, the position previously held by Vogt. L. H. Rogers has been named to the newly created position of industrial market manager.

Graef pointed out that, "These changes in organization are another step in Thilmany's programmed transition from a product-oriented to a market-oriented selling organization."

Appleton Man Sent to Waupun State Hospital After Summary Exam

Irvin A. Zehren, 36, 2710 N. Edward St., charged with two counts involving alleged morals offenses, this morning was ordered committed to Central State Hospital, Waupun, following a summary examination in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

In ordering the commitment, County Judge Gustave J. Keller continued the case indefinitely.

Testifying at this morning's examination, were Florence Zehren, Outagamie County Undersheriff Norbert J. Marx, and Walter Oesterreich, county jailer. County authorities allege the offenses occurred Oct. 12 and Oct. 15 in the Town of Grand Chute.

Downtown Areas Vital To U.S. Communities

In Talk at National Real Estate Convention

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — The greatest civic challenge today is downtown revitalization, Albert Myers, president of a Springfield, Ill., department store, stated here Monday afternoon, and noted that businessmen and realtors must meet this challenge for "the healthy well-being of the communities in which we live."

Speaking at a panel discussion on the subject, "Regional Shopping Centers vs. Revitalized

Co-Op Shows Sales Gains

Greenville Gas Co.
Reports $1,407,262
Net at Annual Parley

GREENVILLE — Net sales totaling $1,407,262, an increase of $106,309, were reported by the Greenville Co-operative Gas Co. at its 35th annual meeting Monday.

Raymond Steen, general manager, read the report.

Edward Kelly and Arlo Tellock were re-elected to the board of directors for three-year terms. Other members are Arnold Schroeder, president; Clarence Schueler, vice president; and Leonard Tennie, secretary. Bernice Greinert, not a director, is treasurer. On the nominating committee were Russell Kettner, Gerald Ebben and Carlton Haase.

William Ernst, Shawano, talked on his recent eight months in Germany as an adviser for the dairy industry. He was formerly associated with Consolidated Badger Co-operative. Ernst told the group, "we are living in a world of independence," and gave a presentation of the political and economic conditions in Germany.

The meeting was concluded with entertainment and a lunch served by the members of the South Greenville Grange.

Downtown," sponsored by the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers, Myers said "I do not think that it is a question of a death-struggle fight between shopping centers and downtowns. Both can live, grow, and prosper."

"The brokers institute panel met during the 59th annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, with which the institute is affiliated.

Areas Threatened

"In every city in the nation we are seeing the survival of downtown areas threatened. Many have predicted that the downtown will die and become a second-rate business center of the city," Mr. Myers reported.

He noted, however, "Cities all over America are coming to the realization that downtowns are vital and important," for they are the centers of government administration and of social, cultural, educational, and philanthropic activities and are major employment centers.

"A healthy downtown sustains a substantial tax load, lightening the overall tax burden," Myers noted.

Citing several examples of efforts by community leaders in cities across the country to upgrade their downtown area, Myers declared, "I believe a revitalized core area is the key to healthy cities for America."

Imaginative Projects

In Rochester, N.Y., Myers said, Midtown Plaza is one of the most imaginative and practical redeveloped projects in America which includes an underground 2,000-car garage; a two-level retail center consisting of some 30 stores and above the two levels, high-rise office space.

"One of the most interesting developments in a smaller community in America is the approach to a nine-block area in Urbana, Ill. Actually, Urbana was a nice, small, rather department store bought a nine-square-block area and dropped

Strive for Improved Education, CESA Told

Lorge Reviews Recent Legislation in Speech to Group's Board of Control

"The people of the state should never be satisfied with current programs in education, but should continually improve them, and judging from the past legislative session, the legislators, too, are aware of the growing needs," said State Sen. Gerald Lorge, speaking to the Cooperative Educational Service Agency (CESA) 8 board of control Tuesday.

During the past session laws were passed creating two four-year universities, 15 area vocational school districts, honor scholarship programs and providing for educational grants and school reorganization, Lorge said.

"There are some problems in these that have to be ironed out," he added, "but it certainly shows the Legislature is aware of our needs."

Teacher Shortage
Lorge told the board that more legislation regarding education will be brought up in the next session. Lorge has introduced a bill to study the problem of teacher shortage and to recommend some solutions. Another study will deal with teacher contracts, often broken in mid-year, and extended bus transportation.

"Another way the state is aiding education," the senator said, "is by increasing state aid, this year by $34.9 million, which will help local districts and give property tax relief."

But it's up to the parents, teachers and interested lay people to do the rest, he added.

Instill Interest

"The parents should instill interest in education in the child as early as possible. The teachers, the most important cog in the wheel, should make learning an interesting and a satisfying experience, picking up where the parents left off or correcting mistakes parents may have made. The lay people should make sure the best possible education is available," Lorge said.

Lorge told the board members that in his opinion the agency has done a good job in providing special teachers for the smaller communities which otherwise could not afford them.

"However," he added, "I feel CESA should not have been saddled with reorganization problems, which can create bad feelings in the districts it serves, but should keep to the education side."

Court Adds 11 Indictments to Terry Kapp

Previously Arraigned
For Burglarizing
Lawrence Building

Terry R. Kapp, 21, 1012 W. Summer St., charged earlier this month with burglarizing Union Hall at Lawrence University, Tuesday afternoon was arraigned on 11 additional burglary counts brought following investigation by Outagamie County and Appleton authorities.

Kapp is being held in the county jail in lieu of posting bonds totaling $13,500. He is being represented by court-appointed counsel. County Judge Gustave J. Keller continued the case to Dec. 2.

Appleton police allege that Kapp committed the following burglaries: The Knights of Columbus Hall, 1525 W. Second St., July 6; Slim Otto's Tavern, 1308 W. Wisconsin Ave., Aug. 18; Appleton Yacht Club, 1114 S. Pierce Ave., Aug. 31; Appleton Chair Factory, 1341 W. Spencer St., Oct. 17; Haupt's Auto Sales, 2009 N. Richmond St., June 20; Alko Super Market, 1421 N. Richmond St., Jan. 22; Sassy's Bar, 619 W. College Ave., Aug. 22, and Jack's Bar, 523 W. Wisconsin Ave., Aug. 14.

Consolidated with the city charges were three burglary charges brought following investigation by county authorities.

Included were burglaries Sept. 25 at Howie's Fiesta, 340 Northland Ave.; American Legion Club, 3220 W. College Ave., on Aug. 27, and Bauer Truck and Equipment Co., 2520 W. Wisconsin Ave., on Oct. 19.

Shirley MacLaine in 'Sweet Charity' Role

Universal Buys Broadway Musical Hit
For Movie Adaptation Costing Millions

BY JINGO

Marking one of the biggest deals made in years for bringing a Broadway show to the screen, Universal has purchased the current Broadway musical hit, "Sweet Charity," and has signed Shirley MacLaine to star in the film version.

Production on "Sweet Charity" will start late next year, with the picture being filmed in color on a multi-million dollar scale as one of Universal's most important projects on its 1967 schedule.

Miss MacLaine, who recently starred in Universal's "Gambit" and currently is in Paris for "Woman Times Seven," will play the role of a dance hall girl in which Gwen Verdon has been such a smash hit on Broadway for the past 38 weeks.

Bob Fosse, who did the choreography and also directed the stage show, has been signed to direct the picture and handle choreography.

Cy Coleman and Dorothy Fields wrote the music and lyrics for "Sweet Charity," for which Neil Simon authored the book.

A one-act play by Tennessee Williams has twice helped her snag important contracts in her acting career, says Ena Hartman, who appears in "Fame Is the Name of the Game," first of NBC-TV's "World Premiere" motion picture series.

Films in this series will be shown on television for the first time anywhere. The initial film is set for Saturday, Nov. 26, preempting "Saturday Night at the Movies."

Performed Rarely

Every time Ena has needed material to convince producers and directors that she's a young Bernhardt, she's turned to the Williams play, rarely performed. It's titled "Talk to Me Like the Rain."

The first time the author of "A Streetcar Named Desire" was a good luck charm to her was when she competed for a contract with NBC-TV.

"I'm not a singer, but the network wanted an actress who could also burst into song when it was required," says Ena. "So I quickly got some songs together and I suppose I managed to keep with the tune when I auditioned. But I'm certain that I would not have won the competition if I hadn't done my scene from 'Talk to Me Like the Rain.' The doors opened wide for me. I became an NBC Television Network contract star and it eventually took me from New York to Hollywood."

Excellent Test
During NBC's rendition of Williams' lines, an NBC film camera recorded the test for posterity. Ena borrows it from the network whenever there's a role that calls for a highly dramatic actress.

She didn't have to use it, however, to win her assignment in "Fame Is the Name of the Game." Producer-writer Randal MacDougall and director Stuart Rosenberg simply asked her to read the speeches of a glamorous Manhattan playgirl. A few days later, Universal asked if she'd be interested in a long-term contract.

"The picture hadn't even started," says Ena. "But the studio was curious as to why the part had been given to me Mr. MacDougall and Mr. Rosenberg suggested that I show them by bringing along a screen test. I did — my test in which I played a Tennessee Williams' heroine. It worked like magic. The contract came when I was before the cameras. I think every dramatic actress is lucky we have Tennessee Williams."

It's not only actresses who are lucky.

Incidentally, Miss Hartman has never met the playwright.

The Joker Duplicates On Batman

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7 (Channels 11-9) — Batman proves the value of carrying an extra key as he keeps himself from being duplicated by the Joker, whose bag of tricks still has some surprises: a time machine that can make time go back, ahead, slow or fast, and some pills he wants to dump in the Gotham City water supply. It takes Alfred on his Alfycue and with his Alfradio — and his lookalike cousin Eggie — to save the day.

6:30-730 (Channels 4-5) — Daniel Boone has a good episode in "The Enchanted Gun." Michael Ansara plays an Indian, relegated to the shadows at council meetings, who saves the life of Boone's son and so is offered his choice of a reward.

7:30 (Channels 11-9) — There's some good-natured fun in F Troop as Capt. Parmenter's clumsy, man-hunting sister comes to case the marital prospects. Patty Regan is funny as the girl who "has been on the road for four years without a nibble." And it's a nibble that causes all the trouble here, as she cooks some less than appetizing cookies that wind up in the unwilling stomach of Hekawi Wild Eagle.

7:30-8 (Channels 2-7-12) — My Three Sons is the least likely show on television to wind up with a wild pie and cake-throwing scene, but that's what happens tonight. Robbie, broke as usual, gets a great idea: Birthdays Unlimited, which means he will supply cakes for all the college students on their natal day, for a small charge to the parents.

7:30-8:30 (Channels 4-5) — Star Trek very cleverly makes use of the original pilot which was shot a couple of seasons ago with Jeffrey Hunter in the lead. It has been turned into a two-parter by having Spock, the only man on the Enterprise to have served under the original captain (which means he was the only member of the original pilot who was retained), "kidnap" the ship for a mission involving Hunter, now a catatonic who communicates by means of a light on his wheelchair. Through a science-fiction version of flash-back, we learn some of what occurred to put Hunter in his present state.

8-10 (Channels 2-7-12) — "The Country Girl" is the film on The Thursday Night Movies and it's a good one, helped by the performances of Bing Crosby as an alcoholic entertainer attempting a comeback, Grace Kelly (who won an Academy Award for her performance) as his seemingly cold wife, and William Holden as an argumentative director who doesn't think much of Her Serenity's qualities as a helpmate.

8:30-9 (Channels 11-9) — That Girl finally gets around to showing its pilot, a pleasant but decidedly lesser effort for the series. Marlo Thomas, working as a waitress, gets a small part in a television show. But her joy is dampened when her agent suggests she should change her name, because people keep saying "Ann Marie What." This suggestion doesn't go over at all well with her father, who is overly loud about it all.

9-10 (Channels 11-9) — Hawk

Area Youth for Christ Sponsoring Movie on Student Trek to Miami

A documentary film, "Lost in a Crowd," will be shown in Appleton under the sponsorship of the Fox Cities Youth for Christ. Green Bay Packer Bill Curry will be onstage in person to discuss the movie after the performance.

The film will be shown at 7:15 p.m. Friday at James Madison Junior High School. There will be no admission charge, but a free-will offering will be taken. Based on true-to-life pictures of college students at Miami and other beaches in Florida during the Easter holiday, the movie has been called a frank look into the morals of these youth.

has a suspenseful, intriguing episode. Seems a very old and good friend of Burt Reynolds calls and asks for help. By the time Reynolds gets to the man, he has been shot and can only mutter something about "fire" before he dies. But as our hero investigates the case, he discovers a huge cover-up is going on in homicide, and he is ordered off the case by his superior.

Rex Harrison, who spent so much time teaching Eliza Doolittle to change her Cockney speech to cultured English in "My Fair Lady," now has a new teaching stint in the title role of "Mr. Dolittle," a Hollywood movie. He's shown with some of the many birds and beasts with which he works. The Belgian draft horse Toggle, seems to be studying the script while a trained parrot perches on his head. (AP Wire-photo)

Anti-Pollution Action Criticized by LaFave

Senator Claims Statutes Should Not Aid Municipalities With Federal Assistance

State Sen. Reuben LaFave, R-Oconto, was sharply critical by the Oconto city attorney in Tuesday of notice issued last July, LaFave said. "They have week to file suit for $510,000 not been forthcoming," he add-against Oconto by the State ed.

Attorney General's office for alleged failure to comply with orders for abatement of water pollution.

"We seem to be embarking on a program of help-the-violator," LaFave said of the court order. New water laws provide assistance to municipalities for abatement measures.

He spoke to Appleton Rotarians during their meeting Tuesday noon at the Conway Hotel.

"I believe in pollution clean-up," the senator said. "But we should not reward the viola-tors."

Old Fight

LaFave said City of Oconto residents began fighting pollu-tion long ago. The suit against the city is one of three involving northeastern Wisconsin com-munities. The original were issued several years ago by the State Committee on Water Pollution, which is now part of the new Department of Re-sources Development.

The department requested Atty. Gen. Bronson C. LaFol-lette to prosecute 58 municipali-ties and corporations that have not acted as ordered.

Tamper at Own Risk, Church Sign Warns

ST. LOUIS, Mo (AP)—Vandals were removing letters from the First Assembly of God church sign in suburban Valley Park until the Rev. John Ellers put a marker in one corner of the sign.

Ellers said there has been no trouble since.

The marker reads: "Tamper at your own risk — this sign protected by angels."

fighting pollution were sought by the Oconto city attorney in Tuesday of notice issued last July, LaFave said. "They have week to file suit for $510,000 not been forthcoming," he add-against Oconto by the State ed.

LaFave also criticized paper mills in the Oconto area saying they polluted waters to a much greater extent than do residents of the city itself.

The state agency's biggest complaint, LaFave said, is a problem of rainwater drain-off which the city was working on for more than a year before the order was issued.

Of the new federal anti-pollution law, LaFave said, "Now, after the election is over, the fights between politicians has subsided."

He predicted communities and politicians will be vying for federal assistance in a "mad race to see who can get the most money and do nothing."

National Trend

"I hope this doesn't become a national trend," he said. "Under the federal program, each com-munity is going to stall," the senator said, in order to gain the greatest amount of federal aid.

"Conscientious communities and industries will have to pay," he said.

LaFave said criticism of boating as a source of water pollution has been blown out of proportion. "Boats, in total, don't pour the effluent into our waters that some industries do in 10 minutes," he said. He called industrial and stockhold-ers profits "the issues behind the scene on water pollution."

The new state pollution abate-ment measure, which allows enforcement of water laws by state agencies, is good legisla-tion, LaFave said. "But it is only as good as the men who enforce it. I hope we can follow the act by acts and deeds of enforcement," LaFave conclud-ed.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

SHAME YOUR CHILD'S FEARS AWAY! GOOD ☐ BAD ☐

Bad. If he's afraid, trying to shame him by calling him a baby or telling him his fears are nonsense, does more harm than good. Trying to convince him that he isn't afraid when he actually is makes it harder for the child to face his fears and get over them. The better way is to accept the youngster's feelings for what they are. Only when we say, "We understand how you feel," are we in a position to help the child see why he's afraid and what can be done about it. Adding feelings of shame and guilt to fear makes too heavy a load for a youngster to carry inside himself.

Secretary of State Gets Party Statement Before Set Deadline

MADISON (AP)—Total cam-paign spending for the Demo-cratic party of Wisconsin edged over the $200,000 mark, accord-ing to statements filed Wednes-day in the Secretary of State's office.

The Democratic outlay of $200,265 was only $1,401 more than reported a week before the election.

The statements were filed a week before the deadline for the state party. The Republican party of Wisconsin had not submit- ted its report by mid-morning. Tuesday was the deadline for the financial statements of can-didates and their personal cam-paign committees.

Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles, who won re-election, said he had no expenses since the $78 he reported two weeks ago.

Lucy Reports

His Democratic opponent, Lt. Gov. Patrick J. Lucy, reported personal expenditures of $2,893. His campaign committee report showed only that it owed $436.

The bulk of campaign spend-ing, however, is handled by vol-untary committees, which are due to file their statements next Tuesday. A closer estimate of the total amount spent in bids for election can be deter-mined when those reports have been filed.

Mayor Won't Veto Appleton Budget Set by Council

Mayor George Buckley said today he will not veto the 1967 budget adopted by the Appleton Council Wednesday night.

The mayor, who had backed the finance committee recommendations, made it known in recent days he would exercise his veto power "if things get out of line."

Buckley said while several persons appeared on behalf of restoring all or half of the original deletions made in the school board budget, he thought the $100,000 was a compromise.

"I would say it was a two-thirds victory for all the taxpayers of Appleton," Buckley said.

Strong Support
The board of education mustered strong support for its position from PTA and other groups and individuals, many associated with Appleton's educational community.

Charles Buchanan Jr., school board president, urged the council to restore $150,000 of the $300,000 that had been cut from the $5.6 million requests. He said Appleton was below the state average on per pupil costs.

Buchanan said the board's educational program in the public schools has not been lavish in the past and funds being sought for the coming year were to maintain the programs now in existence. He said the board did not take the position $300,000 could not be cut, but prepared lists of items it felt would have to be deleted or curtailed. Buchanan said the board considered the impact appropriation cuts would have on hiring personnel, salaries and other areas and programs.

Final Request
Buchanan said Appleton could not have good schools if it didn't have good pay for teachers and a good curriculum.

His final request was for reinstatement of at least $150,000, warning that next years (1968) budget problems would be made for difficult by any cuts made in the 1967 requests.

Buchanan's remarks were interrupted periodically by applause from a major segment of the audience, including several public school personnel.

However, at one point when he apparently misquoted Mayor Buckley, the latter took exception. It was the only incident throughout the lengthy hearing.

Quoted Mayor
Buchanan quoted Buckley as saying on a radio program earlier in the day that Appleton needed more industry and fewer children to achieve a good tax base.

Buckley said he used the word "homes" and not "children."

Buchanan said he was willing to accept the mayor's version of what was said and offered an apology, saying he had taped recorded the mayor's statement and would check it again.

Max G. Hensel, 1007 E. Glendale Ave., read a prepared statement in which he advocated reinstatement of the full $300,000. Hensel said he could not see deferring budget items amounting to $685,577 to another year because it would cost the city more in the long run and did not represent economy. The $685,577 figure represents $4 on the tax rate.

Hensel made several other budgetary observations, constructive and critical, and requested appointment of a "Hoover Commission or Kellett Committee" for Appleton to overhaul governmental structure.

A strong defense of the school board budget was made by Wayne Berkley, 118 S. Schaefer St., representing the Appleton Citywide Parent-Teacher Association. He praised efforts to both the school board and finance committee but felt the educational system would be hurt by deleting $300,000.

Berkley warned that to eliminate the budget would be to eliminate the city.

Aquarium Society Will Meet Tonight At County Bank
Valley Aquarium Society, which has members from Green Bay to Neenah, will meet at 8 p.m. today at the Outagamie County Bank.

The program will include discussion of the Christmas party, nomination of officers for 1967 and plans for a junior club for teen-agers, according to June Sorges, Appleton, publicity chairman. Richard Killawee, Kaukauna, is entertainment chairman and Carol Schuknecht, Greenville, is social chairman.

Other officers are Tom Ditter, president, and Jerry Kroll, vice president, both from Kaukauna; Arthur Otte, 1825 N. Owassa St., secretary, and Richard Huisman, Green Bay, treasurer.

The meeting is open to anyone interested in raising tropical fish.

Fox Valley Unit. Recommends Head of Wolf Commission

The Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission executive committee Wednesday unanimously recommended naming Gordon A. Bubolz, chairman of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission, to represent the Fox Cities on the regional water pollution control advisory board.

Chairman Ralph Risley said Gov. Warren P. Knowles would be informed of their decision and be asked to appoint Bubolz. The advisory committees will be set up in each of the state's five water pollution control regions. They were established Oct. 21 by the State Board of Resource Development.

The Fox Cities are located in Region 3 which covers 20 northeastern Wisconsin counties. Risley said other population centers in the region would probably seek to place representatives on the advisory committee. The Fox Valley planners felt it would be impossible to seat more than one local representative on the group.

Each advisory group will have eight members, one from the Department of Resource Development, Conservation Department, and State Board of Health, and five citizen members appointed by the governor.

Court Sets Hearing On Burglary Attempt

Preliminary hearing was set this morning for Nov. 25 for Ronald E. Pahlike, 29, 722 N. Story St., charged with attempted burglary of Doering's Super Valu, 231 Walter Ave., on Sept. 6.

Pahlike, charged following investigation by Appleton detectives, was returned to jail in lieu of posting a $2,500 bond.

Manned Flight

Space Official Predicts Moon Landing by 1970 At Appleton Seminar

Confidence that United States' scientists and astronauts will achieve a landing on the moon and safe return to earth before 1970 was expressed Wednesday night in Appleton by an official of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Wesley L. Hjernevik, director of administration at the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Texas, told members of the northeastern Wisconsin American Institute of Industrial Engineers, "This doesn't imply that we are ahead of the Russians in space, nor that we will reach the moon before they achieve this objective."

"It does mean," Hjernevik said after a dinner at the Conway Hotel, "That during the past eight years we have achieved a tremendous national capability in space exploration... a capability that has been more than demonstrated during the Gemini program and that is reflected in the current status of Apollo."

Projects End
The Gemini project ended Tuesday afternoon with the Atlantic Ocean splashdown of a capsule carrying Gemini 12 astronauts James A. Lovell Jr. and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr.

Hjernevik credited careful management and planning with much of the country's speedy success in space. The dinner in Appleton capped the first day of a seminar conducted by the engineers' group and entitled "Management Pattern of the Future."

"Performance of technical management requires a highly competent technical and managerial staff and this staff could only retain its technical competence by operation in a laboratory environment," the administrator said.

Program Traced
He traced NASA from its beginnings in 1958 when an act of Congress created the organization. "The late Dr. Hugh Dryden, deputy administrator of NASA, strongly believed that the pressure of development activities tended to 'drive out' research activities when both existed in a single laboratory," Hjernevik said.

"Research activities do require a more detached, academic atmosphere," he added. "Development activities, by their very nature impose a high-powered management atmosphere."

He explained the conception of space centers specializing in different phases of the operation. "With the historic Alan Shepard flight in 1961, he said, the late President John F. Kennedy and the U.S. Congress agreed that a lunar landing this decade should be made a national goal."

NASA Decision
"It was a NASA decision to rely upon universities to support the nation's efforts in the field of pure scientific research," Hjernevik said.

Since 1961, he said, the nation has successfully flown six Mercury flights, completed the Gemini project and is well on the way to successful completion of the Apollo man-on-the-moon program.

Xavier Club Asks Goods For Needy

Members of the Xavier High School Key Club will again canvass homes from 1 to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday for canned goods to be placed in Thanksgiving baskets and distributed to needy families.

The club has already purchased five-pound bags of potatoes, bread and turkeys to supplement the baskets. The money for the items was raised at the Key Club candy sale with more funds to come from the sock hop scheduled for this Friday after the first basketball game.

According to Paul Roberts and Scot Polzin, co-chairmen, 100 baskets will be distributed. Their names were provided by the Apostolate.

Two Burglaries Net Thieves Total of $99

A total of $99 was reported missing following two burglaries in Appleton.

Police said that $40 was taken from the Garot-Christman Agency, 619 E. Wisconsin Ave., after a rear door was forced. A burglary at the office of Dr. J. J. Young, 326 W. College Ave., netted $59. There was no sign of forced entry, police said.

Pleas at Hearing Add $100,000 to School's Fund; Previously Cut $300,000

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY

The Appleton Council adopted a "bare bones" budget Wednesday night, that still calls for a $4.07 gross increase in the tax rate.

For Appleton residents, other than the Calumet County portion, the gross tax rate is $56.22 compared to $52.15 per $1,000 assessed valuation this year, while the rate in the second precinct, Ninth Ward, will be $54.62 compared to the present $52.93.

In authorizing a $15,513,781 appropriation for city and school purposes, aldermen managed to hold the proposed spending down and in doing so bucked a pressure-group which advocated increasing the school budget.

Several weeks ago when departments, boards, commissions and agencies proposed budgets were received — the city was faced with requests topping the $16 million mark and a tax rate boost in excess of $8.

However, the council's finance committee recommended reducing $610,000 from general city budgets and $300,000 from the board of education requests. Mayor George Buckley agreed but the board of education protested.

Increase Reflected
The levy for city purposes, including schools, was set at $7,654,868. However, the county board levy reflected a sharp hike and when that levy is tacked on it adds up to $9,023,003 which will be collected from property owners for city, county and state purposes in 1967.

Taxpayers residing in the Calumet County portion of Appleton (Second Precinct, Ninth Ward) will get a "tax break." While they will pay their share of the city levy — for general and school operations, their county tax load is down, resulting in an overall rate increase of only $1.69.

Highest in History
The total city budget is the highest in the city's history, and the tax hike represents the largest since 1957.

However, Mayor George Buckley and council members agreed the budget is the tightest in years when considering rising costs and demands for municipal services.

"Things could have been a lot worse had it not been for the diligent work of the finance committee and the Appleton Taxpayers Association, with the support from the council," Buckley observed.

Faced with a strong schools' "lobby" which spoke and repeatedly applauded for restoration of from $150,000 to $300,000 in original school board requests, the council finally

Three Persons Injured on County Roads

Motorbike Rider Involved in Mishap On Highway 47

Three persons, including a motorbike rider, were injured in accidents Wednesday on Outagamie County roads.

Gary Aschel, 15 430 E. McArthur St., received a right knee laceration when his motorbike and a car collided about 9:15 p.m. at State 47 near County Trunk OO. Aschel was taken by ambulance to Appleton Memorial Hospital.

County police said the accident occurred as Lucille Van Straten, 22, 2908 E. Wisconsin Ave., was turning into a driveway. Damage was to the front of the cycle and the right side of the car.

Mrs. Ray Paul, route 2, New London, received a back injury when a car driven by Paula J. Postel, 18, route 2, New London, ran into a ditch about 7:20 a.m. Wednesday at Roloff Road and County Trunk D in the Town of Maple Creek.

Fox Planners Table Plans For Refuse Disposal Study

Appleton's Refusal to Participate Gives Rise to Commission Move

Members of the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission's executive committee voted Wednesday to table a proposed $18,000 study of refuse disposal for Fox Valley communities.

The committee tabled the measure after it was learned Appleton aldermen had refused to take action on the study. "If they (Appleton) don't see fit to participate in this study it doesn't make much sense to me to go ahead," said Gene Franchett, executive director of the commission.

Cost of the study was to have been split among commission member municipalities with Appleton providing the largest single portion of $7,144.

Indicated Participation
Most of the 11 remaining municipalities have indicated they would take part in the refuse disposal study. Combined U.S. even included its assessment in the 1967 budget.

Walter Rasmussen, Appleton's director of planning, said, "as far as the city is concerned, they have rejected an incinerator study and so they couldn't very well go along with the regional plan."

"They (aldermen) felt they had enough time to go along for another year," he said.

The study was recommended after Fox Valley Commission engineers reported findings regarding existing and anticipated refuse disposal problems.

Not Predictable

When asked by an executive committee member, what the approximate cost of refuse disposal facilities for the Valley would be, Rasmussen said, "I don't think the total cost is even predictable without a detailed engineering study."

The plan was tabled for an indefinite period after a recommendation by Franchett.

In other action, executive committee members:

Discussed the proposed Tri-County Expressway but took no action. Chairman Ralph Risley suggested possible formation of a steering committee to work toward implementation of the proposed expressway.

—Heard a report by Arno Haering, assistant director, of a recently concluded study predicting future enrollment in the Kimberly School District.

—Approved a recommendation favoring formation of a new park on a 22-acre site in the Town of Vinland just south of Neenah on the lake in Winnebago County.

—Heard plans for a 2 or 3 acre swimming pond for Sunset Park in Kimberly. The commission is doing a site plan for the proposed pond.

—Accepted a census tracing plan for Outagamie, Winnebago and Calumet counties. The plan was prepared by a committee directed by Mrs. Dorothy Stillings.

—Accepted a motion to form a committee to compile information for drawing up a model housing code for use by member communities.

Visiting Nurse Head Resigns As of Dec. 15

Board Compliments Mrs. Harry Jollie On Status of Agency

The Visiting Nurse Association (VNA) board of directors at its meeting this morning, announced the resignation of Mrs. Harry Jollie, as VNA director, effective Dec. 15.

The Rev. Carl Wilkie, VNA president, said Mrs. Jollie had given 90 days notice Sept. 15, and the association has been looking for a new director since that time.

Mrs. T. H. Hartman, personnel committee chairman, said several interviews for the position are scheduled this week. Committee members are Father Wilkie, Mrs. Herbert Holtz, Mrs. Arnold Evans and Mrs. John Mann.

Father Wilkie said Mrs. Jollie's resignation was accepted with "great regret because she has done a superb job of administering the agency; our public image was never better; we have a rising caseload, and it was while she was here that we took on the city nursing contract."

Mrs. Jollie was hired in October, 1965, and since that time the VNA was formally certified as the Appleton agency to provide home health care to participants of the medicare program.

"During the past year our general caseload also has increased, our biggest jump being referrals from the medical profession, Father Wilkie said.

Mrs. Jollie told the board her resignation was because of family responsibilities.

Little Chute Natives

Servicemen Get Trapped in Recent Tragic Italy Flood

LITTLE CHUTE — Two village youths, stationed with the army in Germany, had a 15-day leave in Italy cut short early this month when they found themselves in the middle of the flood and disaster which struck that country shortly after their arrival.

John Spierings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Spierings, 810 Depot St., and Rocky Reynebeau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reynebeau, 305 E. Main St., traveled to Italy in Reynebeau's light foreign car, planning to tour that country.

Because of a train mixup by Spierings, who is stationed about 250 miles from Reynebeau, the two arrived in Florence a day later than anticipated.

Through letters, both indicated the trip to Florence would have been a beautiful, scenic drive in good weather, but was slow and gloomy because of rain and fog.

Flood Hit
The first night in Florence they stayed in a hotel, planning to leave in the morning for Rome and Pisa. By morning the town was flooded, and they were forced to seek a high spot in town. There they, ate, slept and drank in their little car.

Spierings reported flood waters rolled cars over and over smashing them against buildings. Gasoline from underground storage tanks floated on water in flooded streets. Water in some places completely covered parked vehicles and all stores were flooded on the first floor.

The pair managed to find a mountain road out of Florence after spending more than a day in their car, but, here too, travel was restricted, as land-slides clogged the roads. In Trento they found themselves stranded again. People were being evacuated by boat by army personnel and Reynebeau and Spierings again were forced to find a high spot and use their car for sleeping.

People Died

They were permitted to continue travel on mountain roads the next day, no truck traffic was permitted for fear the heavy vehicles would cause roads, already in bad condition from the heavy rain, to wash out. Arriving in northern Italy, they found the only road into Austria blocked by a landslide which had killed 20 people.

An Italian farmer offered to show them another way into Austria and Spierings reported, "We went over mountains, through snow, through orchards, fields, knee-deep water, pastures, rocks and everything." He letter said, "I wouldn't chase a deer through some of the stuff we went through."

The car stood up under the ordeal and the two managed to make their way to Innsbruck and from then on the trip back to their bases was routine.

Reynebeau has been in service since 1963 and stationed at Rosenheim in Munich on security detail since February, 1964. He expects to be discharged in June, 1967. Spierings entered service in December, 1965, and has been a cook in Aschafen-burg since May.

A Color Portrait of former mayor Clarence Mitchell, who served as Appleton's chief executive for eight years, was presented to the city Wednesday night on behalf of a group by Lloyd Taylor, right. Ald. Roy Pointer (14), council president, accepted and also acknowledged Mitchell's record of public service. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Cost of Bridge Over Little Lake Estimated at Nearly $6 Million

Special Group Had Asked for Survey Work

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — The estimated cost for the basic work on a Little Lake Butte des Morts bridge just north of Ninth Street in the Town of Menasha was estimated at $5,994,000 this morning by P. L. Janssen, an engineer with the state highway commission.

The cost estimate was given to the special Little Lake Butte des Morts bridge committee which had requested the survey work.

District Highway Engineer Leroy Empey and Janssen emphasized that the estimates are their own and were not made in behalf of the state highway commission.

The basic project would include an interchange at U.S. 41, a 54 feet wide, 12,000 feet long bridge and a grade level connection at Tayco Street.

Entire Project

Empey and Janssen gave section cost estimates for an entire project which would also include a Tayco Street interchange, connection to a second interchange north of the Banta Midway Plant, a bridge over the lake north of Stroebe's Island, an interchange and connection with County Trunk BB to U.S. 41 and a connecting leg from the Banta interchange to U.S. 10.

The entire project is part of the Fox River Valley Regional Planning Commission's proposed expressway system and was approved by the commission on Sept. 15. If all the work were to be done, they estimated the total cost at about $16 million.

Broken down, the cost would be: $2.8 million for the interchange at U.S. 41; $1.5 million for the bridge itself; $754,000 for the connection with Tayco Street; $2 million for an interchange south of Tayco Street; $2.6 million for the connecting link and the Banta interchange; $1.7 million for the bridge north of Stroebe's Island; $2.3 million for the interchange at County Trunk BB and $2.2 million for the leg over to U.S. 10.

If the bridge north of Ninth Street were to be built with the interchange east of Tayco Street, the bridge cost was estimated at $7.2 million.

Empey said the big question would be financing such construction. He said something possibly could be done under the Long Bridge Act but he felt that man of the drive, sort out the cans gathered so far. Members will again canvass Appleton this weekend. About 100 families will benefit. (Post-Crescent Photo)

new legislation would be needed to make funds available.

Empey also said that the cost estimates were not exact figures and would vary with design changes and future inflation.

The U.S. 41 interchange would involve making County Trunk PP a one-way road going north for traffic which would be crossing the bridge eastbound. The south bound leg of U.S. 41 would also have to be relocated farther to the west outside of the interchange.

The plans also would leave Tayco Street as a local street while still giving access to the bridge. Eastbound traffic off the bridge would come out on to Racine Street if the interchange would be built on the east side of the lake.

The cost of the work at County Trunk BB would be shared by Winnebago and Outagamie Counties, but a division of costs was not given.

Lauds Finance Committee

Buckley Details Reforms in Economy, Annexation, Base

Sweeping recommendations geared at realizing governmental economics, annexations and broadening Appleton's tax base were made by Mayor George Buckley Wednesday night.

In his first annual budget message to the Appleton council, Buckley praised the finance committee for the job it did on the 1967 budget and urged aldermen to follow its recommendations.

"It is my earnest suggestion that we concur with the findings of the budget committee unless you are able to find some other areas where further downward revisions would be in order," Buckley declared.

"Obviously, 20 heads are better than five and you might be able to find a further deletion someplace," Buckley added.

Referring to the estimated $4 tax rate increase the recommended budget would require, Buckley said it was substantial and made recommendations to the council and department heads "... So that this does not occur again next year."

—The council petition the state legislature for a fairer income tax distribution formula. "... So that our cities do not become infants of the tax storm."

—Accelerating the city's annexation program which would enable Appleton and surrounding area to enjoy "beneficial planned growth."

Municipal Ramps

—Placing municipal parking ramps and lots on the city tax roll.

—Encouragement of building and industrial growth, or commercial enterprise that would increase the city's assessed valuation and bolster its tax base.

—Centralized purchasing — consolidating wherever possible major purchases by all boards, agencies and commissions.

—A freeze on personnel hiring where basic responsibilities will not be impaired.

Hard Look

—Taking a "hard look" at the municipal expenditure pattern, and studying possible 1968 projects to determine their necessity.

Buckley put himself squarely on the record in giving all-out support to the budget committee and said its chairman, Ald. Alvin E. Tews (5th) did "a superb job" of reducing the budget from the original requests that were presented.

He also singled out Ald. John MacDonald (7th), Eldred Mullen (6th), George Schwarzbauer (10th) and Al Stoegebauer (4th) for special credit for their work on the budget examining (finance) committee.

"These men were faced with a monumental task and were successful in reducing a possible increase in the tax rate from $9.40 per $1,000 valuation to about $3.75 a thousand," Buckley said.

Buckley said he kept his word and attended every budget session, declaring, "I have never witnessed a budget that was gone over with such a fine tooth comb."

He said there were a few areas that could be reduced further without impairing public health, safety or education of the children of Appleton.

Court Commits Youth to State Mental Hospital

Roland Lee Roberts Jr., 20, 916 W. Winnebago St., this morning was ordered committed to Central State Hospital, Waupun, at the request of his court-appointed attorney who is representing him on charges stemming from the beating Oct. 21 of his former landlady.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered the youth committed, following a brief summary examination. Judge Keller continued the case against Roberts indefinitely.

Roberts, who was arrested in Oshkosh early Monday, is charged with aggravated battery and theft. The charges were brought following investigation into the beating of Mrs. Clara Gipp, 80, in her home at 916 W. Winnebago St.

Demand Cut In Menasha School Cost

MENASHA — In partial compliance with the city council and town board's request to cut the 1967 school budget $250,000, the board of education submitted a list of deletions amounting to $101,895 Wednesday night, but then was sent back to double its efforts.

The consensus among aldermen and town board members remained that the $1.7 proposed operating budget was too high and that they could not in good faith ask taxpayers to pay school taxes which would amount to a $5.39 increase per $1,000 in the city and approximately $7 increase in the town.

Alderman Robert J. Probst, after a lengthy give-and-take session between councilmen, town board members and members of the board of education's finance committee, stated that in his opinion the people of Menasha would not approve the $5.39 increase in taxes which would be added to increases evident in a number of other city department budgets.

"You are suggesting with your recommendations a $1.44 per $1,000 cut in city taxes, which still brings the increased tax rate to $3.95 for school purposes," Probst said.

"We are asking you to bring this down to a presentable rate — $3.95 is not a presentable rate. It is my feeling that the board of education should stick to the $250,000 cut request we made originally.

"The finance committee of the board should make these cuts and another meeting should be called to consider further cutting."

Per Pupil Cost Hike Questioned

NEENAH — Town of Menasha Chairman Roland Kampe stirred up new interest in the scrutiny of school expenditures when he pointed out the huge per pupil cost increases which would result from the proposed 1967 Neenah Joint School District budget Wednesday evening.

Kampe discounted the operation costs per pupil compiled by the state public expenditure survey saying the true figures which affect the taxpayers should be based on the total school tax.

According to his figures, the proposed $3,464,255 tax levy, when divided by the 1966 total enrollment, would amount to a per pupil cost of $544, an increase of $66 over last year.

The state figures show a per pupil cost of $439 in 1966 versus Kampe's compilation of $478.

The councilmen and other town chairmen didn't look into the items in the school budget, but generally agreed that an explanation for the divergent figures was necessary. The group will meet with school officials at 7 p.m. next Tuesday.

Kampe questioned why the per pupil cost was "sky rocketing." He admitted he couldn't discover how the state had compiled its figures but insisted that calculations based "on the total tax dollars was the only fair way of doing it."

He said the taxpayers "can't stand" such an increase. "How are we going to keep industry with taxes like this," he asked. "I know one thing," he said, "I'll never vote for a budget like this."

No one was able to explain how the state had arrived at its per pupil cost figures although a few thought such calculations as average daily attendance, maintenance costs and other matters had some bearing on the results.

Appleton Okays Record '67 Budget

Final council action was interpreted as a mandate for the board of education — like all other city departments — to effect economies and revise spending habits in view of Appleton's fiscal problems which will remain acute for the next years.

Following the public hearing at which several persons paraded before the council and urged restoration of school board deletions, Ald. Alvin E. Tews (5th), finance committee chairman, presided over the committee of the whole session to "firm up" final action on the budget.

"Did anybody in the council this evening feel that the 'deck' was stacked?" Tews inquired of his colleagues, adding he was concerned that between 80 and 90 per cent of the people heard confined themselves to the school board budget without showing concern for general city operations requests which had over $600,000 deleted.

Capping more than two hours discussion on the proposed budget — most of it centering on adding to the schools' budget of $5.3 million, which is now $500,000 more than this year — the council indicated it was impressed most with the approach taken to the overall budget by the Taxpayers Association.

Cuts Recommended
The association recommended a further cut of $95,000 from the general city levy, among other things, and went on record that "at least $200,000 could safely be deleted from the school board budget." It favored restoration of but $100,000 of the original $300,000 cut.

It was disclosed the Wisconsin Public Expenditure survey at Madison, with which the local association is affiliated, scrutinized the overall city budget and compared it with those of other cities, category by category. Budgets of past years were also used for comparison purposes.

Most recommendations of the council's finance committee were agreed with, according to the association's final report, prepared by a cross-section of Appleton citizenry. Services and costs are exceeding the growth of the city's tax base, the association cited, and it noted because of extensive bonding, principal and interest payments showed a marked increase.

Concern Expressed
Focusing on the school board budget, the association expressed concern over its record growth — taking into account increased costs, enrollments and other factors.

However, the association concluded — contrary to school board, PTA representatives and others who spoke — that Appleton was in line with other communities on spending for schools. School budget boosters in the audience felt not enough was being spent on local education.

The association felt that even with the $200,000 cut in the board's budget the 21 to 1 pupil-teacher ratio could be maintained and educational program not harmed.

At one point it was explained a detailed study of the finance committee recommendations, and lists supplied by the school board, indicated $227,000 might be cut from the school budget.

Revenue Changes
Changes in anticipated revenues in other parts of the budget were recommended, and for the most part were carried out by the council.

And the association said more detail should be included in future school board budgets on a school-by-school basis — the same recommendation made by the finance committee.

It also said the board should show all federal aids with revenues and actual expenditures, required by law.

A study into the feasibility of combining the fire and police departments into a department of public safety was also recommended by the association on the basis of possible economy and efficiency.

The association felt the fire department had too many men allotted to it but was informed that because of a shorter work week schedule which goes into effect Jan. 1, 10 additional men will be added.

A suggestion was made the council conduct the annual budget hearing one night and then at a later date hold a meeting to set the levy and tax rate, thus giving aldermen more time to digest recommendations.

"Throughout our budget study and discussions with members of the board of education, superintendent of schools, finance committee and finance director, we were most appreciative of the cooperation given us as officials," the association said.

everyone involved," the taxpayers group added.

Votes on the school board budget were based on a special formula, allowing one vote for each $200,000 equalized valuation. The four towns attached to the school district, which pay 12 per cent of the cost, also had votes.

A move by Aids. Arthur Mueller (19th) and Orville Strutz (17th) to restore $150,000 to the school budget, openly supported by Ald. John MacDonald (7th), was defeated by a 1,219 to 656 vote.

Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), council president, then moved for putting $100,000 back into the board's budget, receiving a second from Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th). It passed 1,711 to 164.

"It was with some mixed emotion that I made the motion," Pointer said, "I think we have been as fair as we could be." He said the Taxpayers Association did an "excellent job" and also commended the finance committee. The school board was thanked for its cooperation.

Council Additions
Before approving the overall city budget, the council added $25,000 to the salaries account, $3,000 for more public library books, $2,200 for a police vehicle, cut the contingent fund by $20,000, recouped another $20,000 in a park-recreation commission budget error and applied $19,000 in interest savings and revenue adjustments to lower the levy.

The juggling was done to make up mainly for the $100,000 restoration to the school board budget, which cost the towns an additional $12,000.

Going into last night's meeting the proposed budget called for a 3.86 tax rate increase.

can achieve that major national objective of lunar landing and safe return during this decade," said the NASA official.

"The basic policy which underlies our management is based on the assumption that the government can and must provide its own technical management of its own basic programs."

Careful government definition, evaluation, review and testing of space machines "gives us an independent validation that all systems are 'go' before we actually fly a man on a space mission," Hjernevik said.

"I believe that during the past eight years this nation has created a new capability, a team of university, industry and government which is able to carry out any mission in space which may be required," he concluded.

Play Reading Drama Is Delightful Production

BY DAVID F. WAGNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
OSHKOSH — Theatrical success is not proportionate to the lavishness of the production. That contention was unequivocally proven at Wednesday evening's presentation of "Spoon River Anthology." The work of Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh's speech department, Edgar Lee Masters' free verse epitaphs of the late residents of Spoon River, circa 1915, rates as the most delightful "play reading" seen at the school.

"Play reading" is printed in quotes because the play was a limited full-scale production, if such a contradiction is valid. It was presented in Reeve Memorial Union's Lounge, filled to its 400-person capacity. There were no props, except for benches and a lectern. But actors memorized their lines, thus invalidating the true meaning of "play reading."

Was Hanky Panky

There was hanky panky abounding in old Spoon River. Such colorful names as Archibald Higbie, Lydia Puckett, Roscoe Purkapile, Searcy Foote, Willard and Amanda Fluke, Barney Hainsfeather and the familiar Anne Rutledge, early sweetheart of Abraham Lincoln who died, dotted the program. Their portrayals were handled by style and conviction by the faculty-student cast.

A multiplicity of talents was required for each actor. Seven principal actors had to adapt to 60 epitaphs. The quality of their versatility was high.

Buckley Won't Veto Budget

none important school items now would mean they would by necessity appear in future budgets. But he told the council if it did not see fit to restore $300,000 ($1.90 more on the tax rate) it should then put back $150,000 allocated for the instructional program.

A spokesman for the Appleton chapter of the American Association of University Women, Mrs. Patricia Danford, 430 E. Pershing St., said the council couldn't afford not to put the $300,000 back into the schools' budget. Her group opposed any cut.

Lack Equipment

Mrs. Joseph Dercks, 1819 N. Nicholas St., a mother of six, said the school board cut would harm the educational program in Appleton and the school children themselves. She was critical of existing conditions at Wilson Junior High and lack of science equipment.

Support for the board's full budget also came from Mrs. Margery Jones, 16 Brokaw Place, who indicated the board of education was in the best position to know the city's educational requirements.

Carl Wellman, 2524 Brookdale Court, and Mrs. R. H. Reeves, 214 S. Rankin St., urged restoring the $300,000, and Walter Rugland, 124 River Drive, suggested a minimum deletion of $150,000 from the schools' budget.

The Rev. Paul Oim, 501 E. Parkway, said Appleton was a high income community and people could afford to spend more money on the educational system, which he considered outstanding.

Scott Schultz, Winnebago Street, a student at Appleton West, read from prepared notes and urged that teachers receive more pay, cautioning the school system could end up with "second rate teachers and administrators" if it didn't provide adequate salaries.

The youth also asked the aldermen to check their respective wards and their consciences when voting on the school budget.

The annual report of the Appleton Taxpayers Association was given by Mabel McClanahan, 1106 W. Wisconsin Ave., the group's president.

250 Attend

Speakers advocating restoration of school board funds were loudly applauded. An overflow crowd of 250 attended.

A sidelight was an observation by Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd) that the Outagamie County Board was the cause of some of the city's fiscal problems, pointing out although it (the board) received recommendations to reduce the county budget by $511,000 — it did not.

Kalata said Appleton taxpayers were saddled with a $1.3 million levy by the county, adding $8.67 to the gross tax rate. He, too, urged appointment of a study committee which would also concentrate more on county government spending.

'Bumper Crop' of University Actors Presents Pirandello's Tragi-Comedy

BY JAMES AUER

Post-Crescent Sunday Editor
Fortunately for Director F. Theodore Clark and the Lawrence University players, the dramas of Italy's Luigi Pirandello are easier to present than to describe.

This somewhat obvious statement is meant neither to diminish nor to detract from the undeniable achievement of the university company, which Wednesday night opened its 1966-67 season with a craftsmanlike and dramatically effective production of Pirandello's tragicomic fantasy, "Six Characters in Search of an Author".

Like all college and university directors, Clark is more or less dependent for the effectiveness of his productions upon the quality of the current crop of student actors. Happily for Fox Cities audiences, this year's crop seems to be a bumper one — with well-seasoned veterans working in concert with promising newcomers.

Frankly, "Six Characters" is not a play that all spectators will find equally enjoyable.

First produced 45 years ago, it is a disarmingly ingenious mixture of experimentalism (reflecting Pirandello's preoccupation with the nature of human personality, as expressed at various times and in many relationships); psychological observation; philosophical speculation; the bourgeois domestic drama, and even some remnants of the "well-made play" on the French model.

Produced on a "bare" stage — as subtly augmented by designer Joseph Hopfensperger, newly returned from his European sabbatical — the drama grows gradually, with cumulative impact, as the author ranges back and forth in time to allow the stillborn characters themselves to build the tragedy locked within them.

Playing the beleaguered Father and all too vulnerable with sustained power and intelligence is Mark Keller — moving and believable as the family head whose own daughter mocks his "aspirations toward a certain moral sanity" by reminding him of his own overtures to her in an establishment of questionable reputation.

matched competition with Keller, while Stephen Rosenfield is vigorous and likeable as the always-accommodating Actor-Manager, forced to cope with the Characters who descend upon him, demanding that his company give them life.

Robert Suettinger is suitably enigmatic as the Mother's legitimate son, estranged from both parents, and Sally Price has a marvelously amusing moment as the English-Italian madame. Sally Hesse expresses the proper helplessness, but is somewhat miscast as the Mother.

"Six Characters" will be repeated at 8 p.m. tonight through Saturday.

Viet Cong Unleash Six Mortar Attacks; Other Action Light

American Troop Strength in Viet Nam Increased by 6,000

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong unleashed mortar attacks on a provincial capital and five government outposts during the night and today in the Mekong Delta.

The barrages struck the town of Ben Tre, 45 miles southwest of Saigon, and a string of militia posts 48 to 78 miles southwest of the capital.

Two women were reported killed and nine other civilians wounded in the shelling of Ben Tre during the night. Fifteen militiamen manning one watchtower suffered moderate casualties, a Vietnamese spokesman said. Casualties at the other posts were reported "very light."

Small Skirmishes

U.S. military headquarters reported only small-scale probes and patrol skirmishes.

In the largest action, U.S. Marines reported the number of Communists killed Wednesday in a fight below the demilitarized zone rose from 14 to 28. The action, 10 miles south of the zone, was the first of any size in Operation Prairie since late September.

The U.S. command reported that American troop strength in Viet Nam rose to 358,000 last week, an increase of 6,000 over the previous week.

B-52 bombers from Guam struck for the eighth straight day today at Viet Cong troop concentrations in Tay Ninh

Brandt Predicts More of Crisis If Coalition Fails

Kiesinger Still Trying to Gain Party's Support

BERLIN (AP)—Mayor Willy Brandt declared today that his Social Democrat party can be kept out of the new West German government only by perpetuation of the political crisis.

Franz Josef Strauss, the new kingmaker of the Christian Democrats, also appeared to favor coalition with Brandt's party.

Kurt Georg Kiesinger, the Christian Democrat candidate for chancellor, met in Bonn with Erich Mende, chairman of the small Free Democratic party.

Political negotiations are expected to mark time, however.

Two Missing From Copter After Ditching

Five Rescued 100 Miles From California Coast

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Two of seven persons aboard a Navy helicopter are missing today after ditching 100 miles offshore west of San Clemente Island, the Navy said.

The SH-3A Sea King helicopter was reported missing half an hour after leaving the aircraft carrier Hornet to Ream Field, near San Diego.

An air-sea search was launched by the Navy and Coast Guard, including aircraft from the aircraft carriers Yorktown and Hornet.

Three Picked Up

A small boat from the Yorktown picked up three survivors. They were identified as Lt. (jg) A. E. White, 26, the copilot, of Chula Vista, Calif.; H. B. Estrada, 24, a crewman, of Chula Vista, and Lt. Cmdr. L. R. Jacobson, a passenger, of North Island Naval Air Station.

The pilot of the helicopter was identified as Cmdr. William E. Todd, 37, of Chula Vista.

Paper Hints Bishops Already OK'd Change

WASHINGTON (AP)—Spokesmen for the National Conference of Catholic Bishops gave no hint on when a decision will be announced on the question of abolishing or modifying the Church's rule against eating meat on Fridays.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer said today it learned from reliable sources that the bishops already have voted on the issue, and that 75 per cent approved abolishing the rule. The paper said final wording of the document had held up its release.

Physicians Bothered By Activity

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, doing well after surgery, had a visit today from former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who exclaimed with surprise "I was so excited he was able to talk."

Eisenhower spent 51 minutes at the hospital—most of that time with Johnson. He said he found Johnson looking well and he expressed obvious startlement that the VIP patient was using his voice.

Johnson's family doctor, Dr. James C. Cain, said Wednesday he was somewhat perturbed about the speed with which the President was returning to matters of state. And the surgeons who removed a growth from Johnson's right vocal cord before repairing an abdominal hernia, repeatedly made it clear they want him to spare his voice for several weeks.

Johnson, however, conversed with Eisenhower in a voice audible to photographers summoned to record the event.

Up Before Dawn

The President was up before dawn today and moved to a chair without assistance, to eat breakfast. Eisenhower arrived two hours later.

It was the 32nd wedding anniversary of the President, and Eisenhower was asked by newsmen as he came in if he had dropped by to offer congratulations on that event.

"Is it today?" the former chief executive responded.

Johnson had a breakfast of melon balls, creamed chipped beef, toast and tea.

Mrs. Johnson and the White House physician, Navy Capt. Lay Fox, spent the night in the President's suite.

Osteopath Vows to Build New Life

Jury Deliberates for 12 Hours, Acquits Sheppard of Murder

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Samuel H. Sheppard, cleared after 12 years in the bludgeon murder of his first wife, savored his complete freedom today and quietly vowed to build a new life with his second wife.

The balding, graying man of 42, who served nine years in prison for the crime of which he was acquitted by a jury Wednesday night, said: "How can I have anything in my heart left of bitterness. I have no bitterness. I have love in my heart."

His lawyers said they expected his osteopathic license, suspended while he was in prison, to be restored. But when asked if he will return to his career as a neurosurgeon, Sheppard replied: "I don't know if I will. If people are sick and need a neurosurgeon's help, I will."

A jury of seven men and five women, acting just under 12 hours after receiving the case, found Sheppard innocent in the July 4, 1954, slaying of Marilyn Sheppard. She was 31 and five months away from bearing his second child when she was beaten to death in the bedroom of their suburban Bay Village home. Sheppard said she was slain by an intruder.

Sheppard Jubilant

As he heard Common Pleas Judge Francis J. Talty read the verdict, Sheppard, on his feet, slapped the counsel table a resounding blow of jubilation. Then, as his lawyers pushed him down into his chair, he began to sob, his shoulders shaking.

Later, in a corridor separating the courtroom where he was convicted in 1954 from the one where he was acquitted 12 years later, Sheppard exulted:

The Army man was married to Mrs. Betty J. Mitchell.

Author Cites 'Harassment'

$26 Million Suit Filed Against Auto Firm

NEW YORK (AP) — An attorney for General Motors says the corporation has no legal liability to Ralph Nader, the auto safety advocate who filed a $26 million invasion of privacy suit against the firm.

"In due course, the courts will vindicate our position," said the attorney, Simon H. Rifkind.

Vincent Gillen, a licensed private investigator who also was named as a defendant in the suit, described the charges as "a lot of nonsense."

Nader, 32, an attorney who led a successful fight for a new federal auto safety law, filed the suit Wednesday in Manhattan Supreme Court.

The suit alleges that General Motors subjected Nader to "harassment and intimidation" (and) intruded into and invaded his seclusion, solitude and private affairs.

Other Charges

Nader charged in his suit that detectives hired by General Motors questioned his acquaintances and cast "aspersions upon plaintiff's political, social, economic, racial and religious views, tendencies and possible prejudices; his integrity, his sexual proclivities and inclinations, and his personal habits, such as use of intoxicants, narcotics and the like."

Powell Given Until Nov. 23

30-Day Sentence To Begin Then, Justice Decides

NEW YORK (AP) — State Supreme Court Justice Matthew M. Levy today ordered Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, Harlem Democrat, to surrender to the sheriff on Nov. 23 to begin serving a 30-day jail term for criminal contempt of court.

In his order, Levy said that Powell would be liable to an additional 60-day term if he defaulted in paying a $500 fine which was part of the sentence imposed on Nov. 4.

The Negro minister and congressman was told to give himself up at 10:30 a.m. at the courthouse on Nov. 23.

Levy said the order could be served personally or by registered mail on Powell at his legal voting address, 120 W. 138th St., in his Washington, D.C., congressional office, or his "abode" in Bimini in the Bahamas.

The surrender was ordered to take place a day after the five-man Appellate Division is to hear arguments on whether Levy should be restrained from signing the arrest order on the ground that the lower court lacked jurisdiction in the case.

Saturn I Booster Test Successful

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — An updated version of a Saturn I booster rocket fired its powerful engines successfully for 35 seconds Thursday.

The test conducted by the Chrysler Corp. at the Marshall Space Flight Center with the rocket on a stand was the eighth in a series of 12 updated tests of the same design.

The Saturn I engines generated 1.6-million pounds of thrust during the test.

A second test firing of 145 seconds is planned in about two weeks. The vehicle then will be shipped to the Marshall Center's Michoud assembly facility at New Orleans for post static firing checkout.

Gemini 12 Crew Praised for Photos

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — After one look at color movies of the record-smashing Gemini 12 ship in three excursions totaling about 5½ hours. His 2-hour, 9-minute stroll bested Cernan's Gemini 9 record by one minute.

Movies showed Aldrin gracefully going about his job of determining how well man can work in space by using various handholds and restraints. Officials had been puzzled by a fatigue problem encountered by Lovell and Aldrin flew Wednesday to Cape Kennedy, Fla., from the aircraft carrier Wasp which retrieved them tography. Aldrin set a record for time spent outside an orbiting space ship in three excursions totaling about 5½ hours. His 2-hour, 9-minute stroll bested Cernan's Gemini 9 record by one minute.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration released the first 140 feet of more than 1,500 feet of movies Wednesday night taken by Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. during their four-day orbital flight in Gemini 12.

Officials said the pilots did a "tremendous" job in their photography.

Aldrin set a record for time spent outside an orbiting space ship in three excursions totaling about 5½ hours. His 2-hour, 9-minute stroll bested Cernan's Gemini 9 record by one minute.

Movies showed Aldrin gracefully going about his job of determining how well man can work in space by using various handholds and restraints. Officials had been puzzled by a fatigue problem encountered by Lovell and Aldrin flew Wednesday to Cape Kennedy, Fla., from the aircraft carrier Wasp which retrieved them

Tuesday from the western Atlantic Ocean. They continue today an extensive briefing on their mission, recalling the thrilling events for a tape recorder.

Their flight ended the Gemini program which sent 20 men into space in 20 months and opened the gate for the Apollo man to the moon program. First earth orbit flight of a three-man Apollo crew is scheduled early next year.

The movie pictured Aldrin skirting over the Pacific, past Mexico, then Cuba. However, Cernan said, "Out there you generally don't know where you are, and really don't care."

However, once he attached a waist strap, similar to that used by a window washer, Aldrin had little difficulty doing the job.

He spent more than an hour near an Agena rocket linked to Gemini 12's nose. He looped a 100-foot cord between the two vehicles, then practiced loosening bolts with a special "space wrench."

Astronaut Edwin Aldrin begins his long excursion in space outside the Gemini 12 capsule over the Pacific Ocean. He had just left the spacecraft to begin a series of tasks designed to determine man's ability to work in a weightless environment. The astronauts returned Tuesday. (AP Wirephoto)

Legislature Won't Settle Vote Dispute

Federal Judges Affirm Earlier Word on Ruling

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A three-judge federal court ruled formally today that the Georgia Legislature cannot elect a governor in the deadlocked race between Republican Howard Callaway and Democrat Lester G. Maddox.

The decision struck down the Georgia Constitution's provision for legislative decision in no-majority elections. An immediate appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court was planned by the state. In a decision formalizing its tentative ruling of last Friday, the federal panel merely invalidated the Georgia constitutional provision. But a 10-day suspension of the order was granted to give State Atty. Gen. Arthur K. Bolton time to seek an additional stay from the Supreme Court.

No remedy for the winless election was set forth by the court, composed of Chief Judge Elbert P. Tuttle and Judge Griffin Bell of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and Dist. Judge Lewis R. Morgan.

The court declared Article 4, Section 1, and Paragraph 4 of the Georgia Constitution to be unconstitutional and void. That is the section requiring the general assembly to elect a governor from the top two candidates in the event no candidate receives a majority. Callaway and Maddox were denied a majority by write-in votes for Ellis G. Arnall, a former governor.

In its opinion, the three-judge panel said the Georgia provision is patterned after the federal electoral college. But the court said a Supreme Court ruling voiding the Georgia county unit system of primary elections in 1962 invalidated the state constitution's legislative election provision.

Clintonville Holds Taxes At $32.50 Rate

1967 Budget Higher But So Is City's Equalized Value

CLINTONVILLE — Taxes will hold at the rate of $32.50 per $1,000 of assessed valuation since the common council at a special meeting Wednesday unanimously voted to adopt the 1967 budget proposed at the Nov. 1 meeting.

Of the $32.50 total rate, only $7.52 is for city purposes.

Expenditures next year total $1,098,464.37 with revenue other than property tax figured at $227,832.50. This leaves $870,632.37 to be met by property tax. The 1967 budget is up $82,262.87 over 1966.

Use General Fund

The 1966 budget was $1,016,202 with revenue other than property tax figured at $209,657, which left $806,544 to be raised by property taxes.

The property tax levy is $64.088 higher for 1967.

The 1967 assessed valuation of the city is $26,258,650 which represents a $1,557,980 tax base increase over 1966 when the assessed valuation was $24,700,670.

The $32.50 per $1,000 rate adopted will produce a levy of $853,406. This is $17,225 less than the amount needed but the difference will come from the general fund.

The tax levy for the city's expenditures for 1967 is $214,597.88, down $3,624.12 from the 1966 figure of $218,222. The 1967 levy for school purposes is $465,236.63, up $46,914.63 from the 1966 figure of $418,322. The estimated 1967 state and county tax levy is $190,797.86, up $20,797.86 from the 1966 figure of $170,000.

The 1967 budget for city expenditures is $442,430.38, up $14,550.27 from the 1966 figure of $427,880.11.

'A' Positive Blood Needed At Center

CLINTONVILLE — An additional 15 pints of A positive blood have added to a quota of 107 pints of blood for the Red Cross Bloodmobile visit Monday.

Ralph Sorenson, Bear Creek, will have open heart surgery in Madison Tuesday and the 15 units of whole blood will be required for the operation. Blood donated here Monday will be rushed to Madison.

The bloodmobile will be at the Veterans Memorial building from 1 to 6 p.m. Mrs. Raymond Schulz, recruiter chairman, said walk-in donors will be welcomed as well as those having made appointments.

Frazier Reports on Crime

Bad Checks, Fraud on Rise in Waupaca, Sheriff Tells Board

WAUPACA — Issuing bad checks and attempts at fraud have increased greatly during the past year, Sheriff Loran Frazier told county board members Monday while presenting his annual report.

In 1965 the sheriff's department made 24 arrests for bad checks and fraud and in 1966 this jumped to 63, he said.

Arrests for the year ending Oct. 31 totaled 283 compared with 312 in 1965. Most major offense arrests are down with the exception of those for worthless checks and burglary. This year, 18 arrests were made for burglary compared with 10 last year.

Decreased Categories

Categories showing decreased are theft which dropped from 25 to 15; assaults from 14 to 16; sex offenses from 17 to 16 and probation and parole violations from 20 to 12; and murder from 2 to 1.

Because of fewer arrests, the number of prisoners confined to the county jail dropped from an all-time high of 419 in 1965 to 344 this year, Frazier said.

The number of major complaints investigated and cleared during the year is far above the national average of 50 per cent. Frazier said, 405 major complaints were received with, 306 being cleared. In addition, 407 minor complaints involving family disputes, dogs, fights and sundry nuisances were received.

Complaints Cleared

Complaints received and cleared, Frazier listed one murder, four felonious assaults, all cleared; 49 burglary complaints received and 36 cleared; 104 theft complaints, 67 were cleared; seven of eight wanted persons located; 24 worthless check complaints with 15 being cleared; and of the 152 misdemeanor complaints, 137 were cleared.

During the year 33 deaths were investigated. These included 11 traffic fatalities, seven from natural causes, 12 accidental and three self-inflicted.

A total of 68 persons were transported to institutions. Of these 29 were taken to the Winnebago State Hospital; six to the Waupaca County Hospital; 13 to Waupun State Prison; eight to the Green Bay Reformatory and 12 to other state institutions.

Papers Served

The sheriff's department served 704 civil papers during the year. Of these 152 were from Waupaca County and 552 were from private authorities. Fees collected from private authorities for serving civil papers totaled $3,615. This money was turned over to the county treasurer, Frazier said.

Frazier said that during the first week of August, a total of 23 prisoners were being held in jail at one time. The state has given approval to confine nine prisoners at one time in the present jail, he said.

"I am telling you this to confirm the need for the number of cells that will be in the new jail now under construction," Frazier said.

"With the new jail we will also be able to take more advantage of the Huber Law, which grants prisoners the privilege of working during the day and being confined nights and weekends," he added. In the past year some prisoners were allowed to work on the Huber Law and their earnings amounted to $2,180 of which $713 was paid to the county for room and board.

Fox Planners Table Plans For Refuse Disposal Study

Appleton's Refusal to Participate Gives Rise to Commission Move

Members of the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission's executive committee voted Wednesday to table a proposed $18,000 study of refuse disposal for Fox Valley communities.

The committee tabled the measure after it was learned Appleton aldermen had refused to take action on the study. "If they (Appleton) don't see fit to participate in this study it doesn't make much sense to me to go ahead," said Gene Franchett, executive director of the commission.

Cost of the study was to have been split among commission member municipalities with Appleton providing the largest single portion of $7,144.

Indicated Participation

Most of the 11 remaining municipalities have indicated they would take part in the refuse disposal study. Combined Locks even included its assessment in the 1967 budget.

Walter Rasmussen, Appleton's director of planning, said, "as far as the city is concerned, they have rejected an incinerator study and so they couldn't very well go along with the regional plan."

"They (aldermen) felt they had enough time to go along for another year," he said.

The study was recommended after Fox Valley Commission engineers reported findings regarding existing and anticipated refuse disposal problems.

Not Predictable

When asked by an executive committee member, what the approximate cost of refuse disposal facilities for the Valley would be, Rasmussen said, "I don't think the total cost is even predictable without a detailed engineering study."

The plan was tabled for an indefinite period after a recommendation by Franchett.

In other action, executive committee members:

- Discussed the proposed Tri-County Expressway but took no action.
- Chairman Ralph Risley suggested possible formation of a steering committee to work toward implementation of the proposed expressway.

—Heard a report by Arno Haering, assistant director, of a recently concluded study predicting future enrollment in the Kimberly School District.

—Approved a recommendation favoring formation of a new park on a 22-acre site in the Town of Vinland just south of Neenah on the lake in Winnebago County.

—Heard plans for a 2 or 3 acre swimming pond for Sunset Park in Kimberly. The commission is doing a site plan for the proposed pond.

—Accepted a census-tracing plan for Outagamie, Winnebago and Calumet counties. The plan was prepared by a committee directed by Mrs. Dorothy Stillings.

—Accepted a motion to form a committee to compile information for drawing up a model housing code for use by member communities.

The 1966 green and white Christmas seals have been sent to Outagamie County residents this week to launch the annual Tuberculosis Association (TB) fund drive, which began Wednesday.

Assisting with envelope stuffing and mailing are the Golden Agers, American Legion Auxiliary and the Elks Ladies 337.

Dr. George P. Nichols is campaign chairman. Area chairmen are Mrs. Gordon Steinberg, Appleton; Orville Sell, Black Creek; Mrs. Edward Hartjes, Combined Locks; Mrs. Clarence Colombe, Hortonville; Mrs. Cletus Dietzler, Kimberly; Mrs. Gerald Vils, Kaukauna; Mrs. Jack Hermesen, Little Chute; Mrs. Milo Singler, Shiocton, and the Methodist Youth Fellowship, Seymour.

"All these volunteers who are assisting in the campaign, are giving the people of Outagamie County a very important Christmas present — the promise of better health," Dr. Nichols said.

Support Program

The various programs supported by the Outagamie County TB Association include volunteer help in the skin testing program of school children; continued education of the people in the dangers of respiratory diseases; financial help for chest X-rays for those who need further study but can't afford it; and promotion of a pilot study program in a local industry whereby volunteers help with the skin testing program of all employees.

New Figure Would be Set at $38

WAUPACA — A $2 tax rate increase will be required to help finance the city's record 1967 budget which totals $729,311, if the spending proposal is approved without change.

Already approved by the council, the budget will be presented to the taxpayers at a public hearing at 8 p.m. Nov. 28. It calls for a tax rate of $38 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. The rate this year was $36.

The total budget includes: —$444,823 for city purposes, $49,389 more than the $395,434 appropriated for the current year.

—$226,170 as the city's share of the school district levy, an increase of about $6,000.

—$117,164 toward the county budget, up about $8,000 over the current year.

$403 Short

Applied against the city's new assessed valuation of $13,678,300, the proposed rate would produce a levy of $519,775. This, coupled with receipts anticipated from sources other than direct taxes, would total $791,908, or $403 less than needed.

However, between now and the budget hearing, Mrs. Hafriet Ward, city clerk, will retabulate budget requests and anticipated revenues in an attempt to adjust the figures.

Aside from being $403 short, the budget does not contain a contingency fund. This means that should revenue from outside sources fall short of expectations, the city would be operating at a deficit.

Salaries Increased

One of the leading causes for the increased budget is all city employees have received salary increases. A $4,500 subsidy for ambulance service also has been added to the budget.

Anticipated receipts in the new budget are $273,299 compared with the $259,431 in last year's budget. Monies required from the tax levy for the operation of the city will be $171,524.

In a breakdown of the budget categories general government has been set at $55,650 which is an increase of $670. Protection of persons and property increased $8,423 with the largest increase being the ambulance service subsidy.

Spending Increases

Increased spending at the sewage treatment plant and city dump has increased the health and sanitation category from $19,500 to $21,350.

Bubolz Proposed for Water Control Board

Valley Planners to Recommend Chairman Of Wolf Commission to Represent Area

The Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission executive committee Wednesday unanimously recommended naming Gordon A. Bubolz, chairman of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission, to represent the Fox Cities on a regional water pollution control advisory board.

Chairman Ralph Risley said Gov. Warren P. Knowles would be informed of their decision and be asked to appoint Bubolz. The advisory committees will be set up in each of the state's five water pollution control regions. They were established Oct. 21 by the State Board of Resource Development.

The Fox Cities are located in Region 3 which covers 20 northeastern Wisconsin counties. Risley said other population centers in the region would probably seek to place representatives on the advisory committee. The Fox Valley planners felt it would be impossible to seat more than one local representative on the group.

Each advisory group will have eight members, one from the Department of Resource Development, Conservation Department, and State Board of Health, and five citizen members appointed by the governor.
